From here we travel forward . . .

The start of school is a major step in our lives along with our first lunchboxes.

The steps in our lives, difficult to climb yet easy to descend.

All alone, yet on her, way traveling down the road of life.

As we grew older we graduated from lunch boxes to paper bags from elementary to high school.

A bridge to link our pasts.

At the end of the road are memories and the sense of peace.

but we would not have been able

Knowledge gained is held fast even after the year is gone.

As a group for the last time - our departure from high school.

United, our red, white, and blue soar high.

J.V. Lions get together to set the play

Getting together for break before having to separate into different classrooms

The pain and exhaustion of a week's practice becomes worthwhile on Saturday morning to leave and separate . . .

If we had not first come

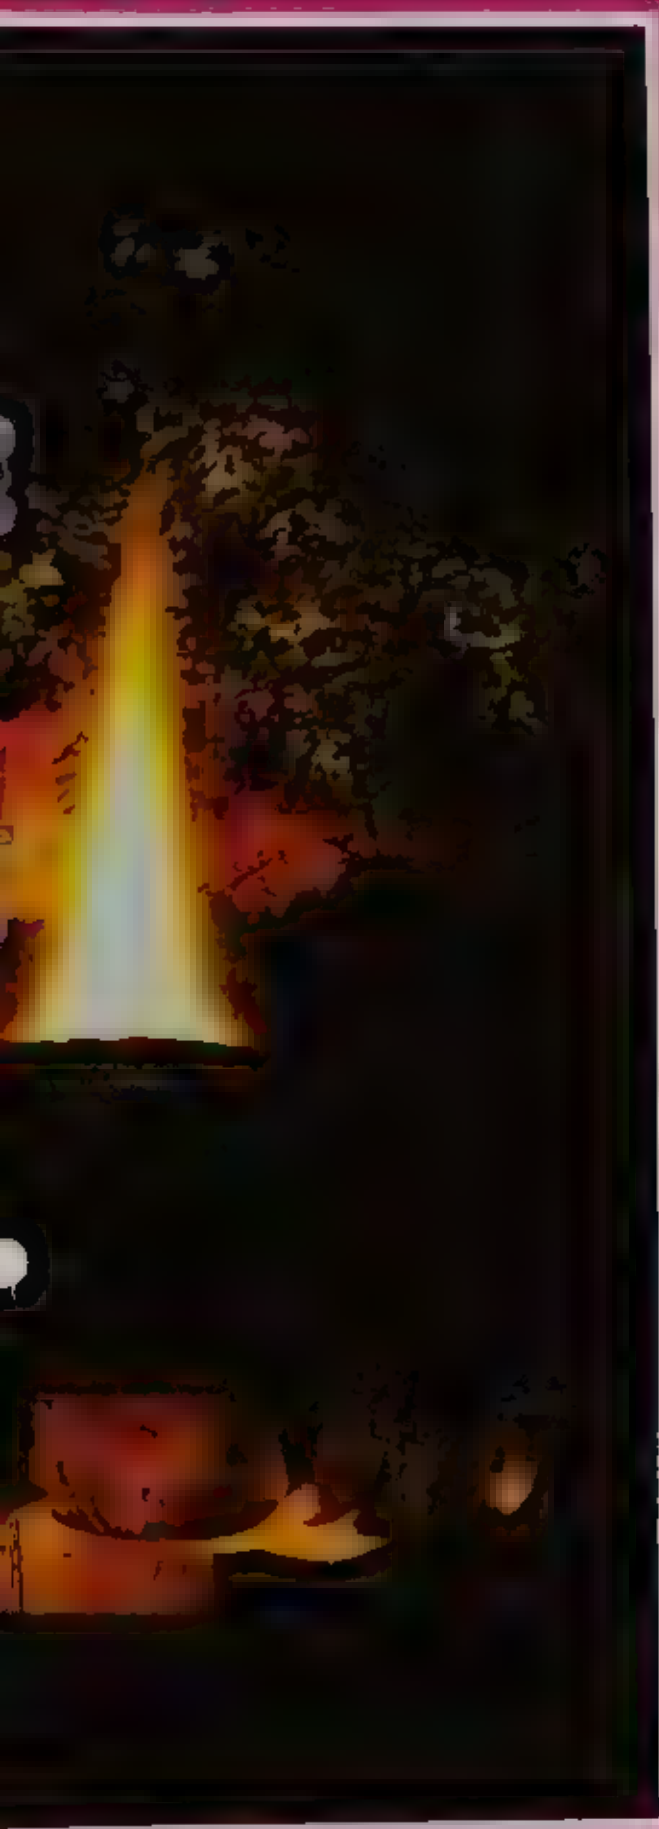

Sharing our childhood joys at the same time we have together

Germany's history is there for those who want to learn and fill themselves with knowledge and shared our pasts . . .

The castle fountain's endless beauty has been seen by many generations.

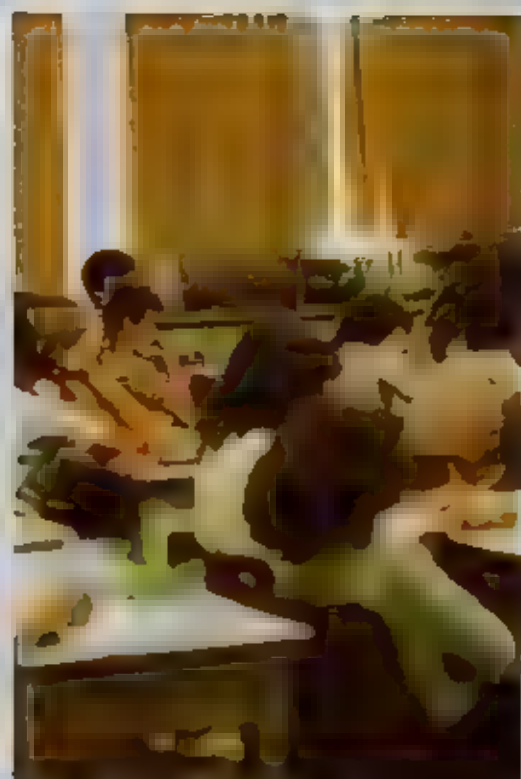

Mark our football mascot practices in hope of being a mighty lion.

Victory can bring out affection even in coaches Shultz and Jolley.

And if we turn our backs . . .

Proste — to life!

Back to back the fighting lions and the cheering lions give each other support

Our royalty, truly a beautiful sight

Trying to fade away from kitchen duty,
Tiffany Joe shows her dislike while Judy
Wornack continues washing

Is it possible to illuminate a life as these colorbursts do the night sky?

Traveling the halls of HHS truly not a splendid sight

on fading splendor . . .

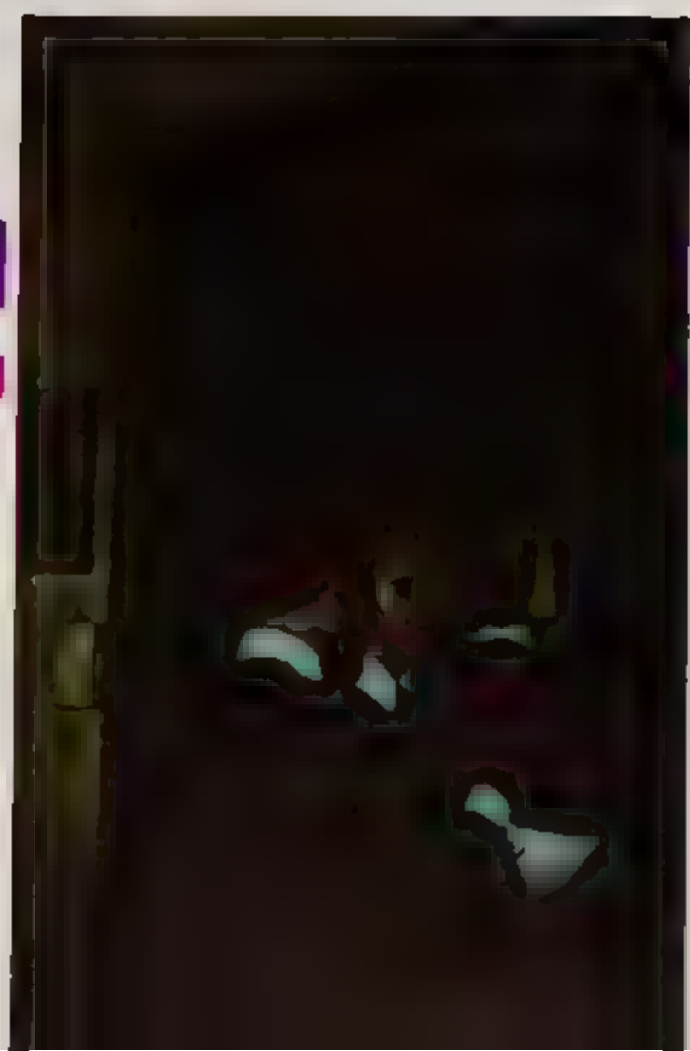

We shall find even greater promise . . .

Through the window you can see a new sun, another day and six more hours at school

Graduating is another word for being re-born

A night watch of the old bridge, truly splendid in its own right

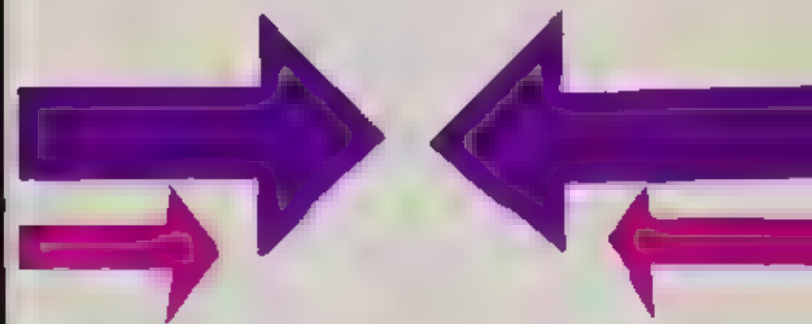

In our memories we will always be together

Dawn ... the birth of something new, innocent and promising

Keep your life like fireworks, beautiful, color ful and mostly unique in the flush of tomorrow's dawn."

The Senior Class chose a lovely fall Sunday afternoon at the Heidelberg Amphitheater to picnic and party!

We all dream of great deeds and high positions, yet knowing our true success need not be measured by the virility of the position we earn. But the realization of our success is fulfilled by sharing the best that we can give and making the most of what we have.

As our last year began we returned to the mountains for a party. Except this time as we viewed Heidelberg, the grandeur of the illuminated castle, the crowded walks of the Hauptstrasse, and the tranquil winding Neckar, our days simplicity grew dearer to us. For the first time we realized . . . This may be the last time we will ever pass this way.

As we leave here each of us will know that it's the happiness we've shared with one another that has made this year complete.

Scott Badami, Jack Gordan, Chris Merna, and Pat Kane are caught socializing while waiting for the Pep rally to begin.

Drill team members Carmen Griner, Amy Grubb, and Cindy Danischer prefer pep rallies to classes.

The Senior counselor, Mrs. Clark, shows that faculty can have spirit, too.

The Class of '80 demonstrates their unity as they grip together on the amphitheater and use for this project.

This was our year to show just how much it is that we can cheer. Our counselor Ms. Clark is the one who has helped to spark our spirit. She has guided each of us from the time we enrolled here at HHS, helping us to carefully select courses that will enrich our knowledge and prepare us for the future. She has shown us we are all winners. Through participation and dedication, our spirit sparkled. Each of us glowed with enthusiasm at the pep rallies as our cheers proved the devotion we have for our class. Our voices peeped through the gym letting everyone know the class of 80 is here to stay and our spirit will never die. We enjoyed showing off our spirit when spirit week rolled around and we beamed to earth as Martians. As seniors we are brought together by a special closeness, the good time spirit. Our ROWDINESS and SPUNK will never be contained. We are the SUPER SENIORS who will always reign.

Saving involved was the goal of the Senior Class. Although we had only a few more months of high school left, we still ran as many activities as possible, and everyone helped in making it a super Senior year. Our hectic Homecoming week was marked by Mum and Spookgram sales. Later on in the year we sponsored the Winter Formal. Our spirit remained countless, because we could always think of the Easter Senior trip if ever we grew discouraged. Finally, as a culmination of our high school years we united in the last, and most important act we would ever perform together as a class . . . our own graduation. We are no longer the Class of '80, that class which we have lived for and loved for so long. The memories cannot be forgotten.

And Memory

Takes Them . . .

The Senior year is a time of laughs and of parties, of decisions and of excitement, of hard work and of maturation. It means many things to many different people, but for all, it is the time to form very special friendships, ones that will be remembered and treasured forever as our last in high school and, for many of us, our last in Germany. As Shakespeare once said, "I count my self in nothing else so happy, as in a soul remembering my good friends."

A unique type of friendship - player Bill Korth and Coach Libbey

Ms. Kuzmick, the Senior Class sponsor

The Senior Class Officers did their job and maintained the pride of the Class of 80. Bob DeBaradino worked to arrange the books and make sure the money went to good use, while Cindy Estes was constantly involved in each of the Senior Class activities. Kitty Cole was responsible for the Senior Class Trip, and all money making programs. Sonya Hepinsall was assistant to the Senior Class President Kathi Dasso, who oversaw and initiated each of the programs and activities of the Class of 80.

Another Year, Another Triumph

Junior class President, Andy Dashiell

Junior class Treasurer, Mark Fukuda

When the school year opened in August the class of '81 entered a whole new phase of high school life. They had finally reached their two year goal of becoming upperclassmen. The spirit and enthusiasm they exhibited in all school activities left a deep impression.

In preparation for the Homecoming game against Nuernberg Eagles the Juniors constructed the winning floor. The long hours of planning and preparation paid off as the Juniors once again came out on top. As the football season progressed the "Jolly Juniors" could be heard screaming above the crowd, as the Lions went on to victory.

Under the supervision of class officers, President Andy Dashiell, Vice President Liz Eason, Secretary Tom DeBerardino, Treasurer Mark Fukuda and Prom Chairman Tammy Harnley, directed by moderator Mr. Macray, the juniors were ready to meet any challenges.

Along with the new found freedom and privledges came a new sense of responsibility for the Juniors. They were bogged down with numerous tests and assignments. Many took the risk of a third year language, Chemistry and Algebra II SAT's were tackled for the first time, college catalogues became more and more familiar for the Juniors.

In May the Junior/Senior Prom finally arrived and the elegant atmosphere of the Heidelberg Castle with its midevil beauty and its excellent view made the perfect setting. The evening was enjoyed and will long be remembered by all who attended.

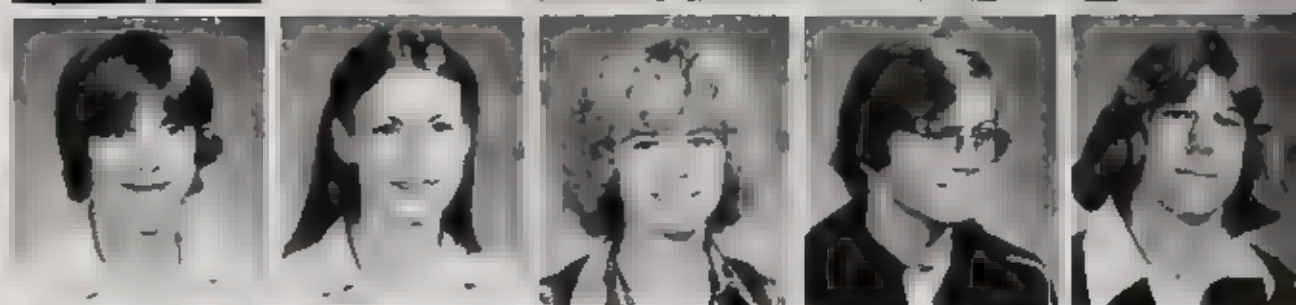

During class elections, Tom DeBerardino expresses his views on the needs of the class of 81.

The smoking area is a popular place for Juniors Terri Miller and Bruce Jensen

g for the game, it's not for

The teachers persistently reminded juniors that they were now mature adults and should begin to act like it. It was time to buckle down and get to work.

Though the awareness of duties and obligations always remained in their minds, the Juniors never allowed it to overshadow their desire for fun and relaxation, coupled with their involvement and recognition in extra curricular activities. The same spirit that permeated the class for the past two years carried on through their Junior year.

Their enthusiasm was channeled in various directions.

SOPHOMORES '82

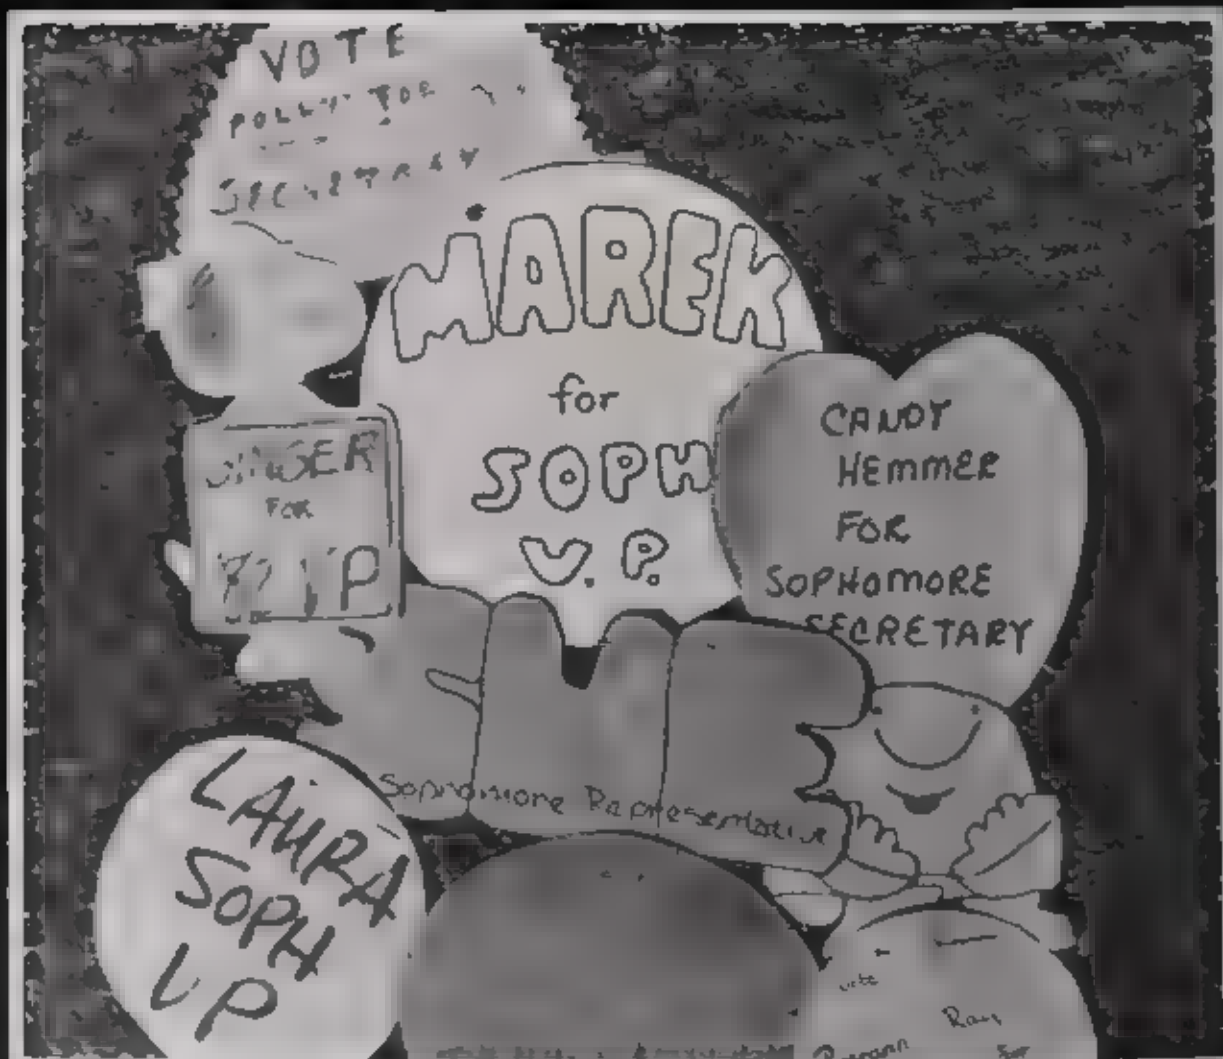

Two more years. It's in the mind of every Sophomore this year. Having moved up from the drudgery of Freshmanhood, the class of '82 has thoughts on the years ahead, and with a little luck, the graduation on that day in June 1982.

But until then, the Sophomores are concentrating on the Sweetheart Dance and Cornation Day. They realize that it takes special groups of people to organize the dance and make some sense out of the mass confusion of cornation sales: a group made up of Sophomores such as President Vana Siouris, Vice Pres. Raley Marek, Treasurer John Magness, and Secretary Polly Brady. With the rest of the Sophomore Class pitching in, they were able to win the Spirit Stick three times. Which goes to show what determination, spirit, and a touch of luck can do. To add to victories, the class of '82 came in second in the Christmas Tree contest. Having worked on it in the late hours of the night, they displayed that even during those cold days in December, their spirit was red hot.

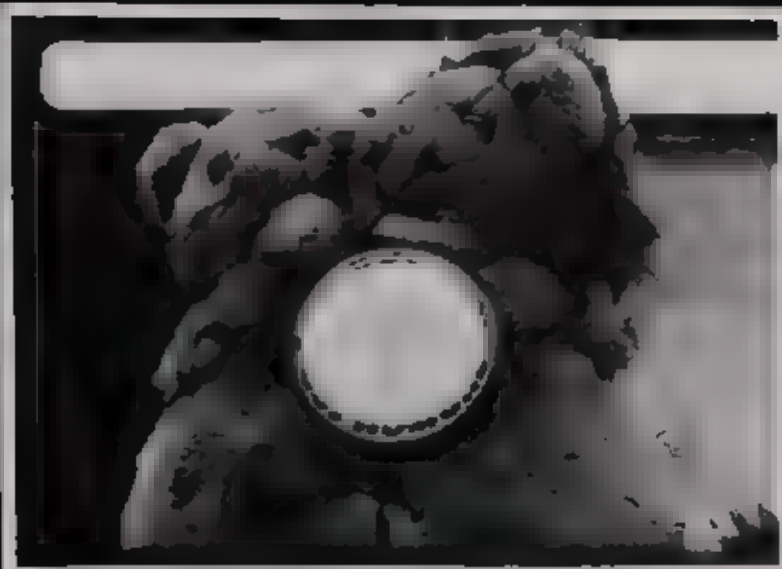

After a successful year the Sophomores of Heidelberg High are headed for a successful future!

Freshmen Float Wins Second Place

The freshmen class spent many many long hours in Eric Dommer's garage working on the Homecoming float. As the deadline crawled closer people were losing interest so someone thought of a rumor to get people to work. Well, the rumor spread through the school that the float was ruined. That night more people than ever came. The rumor worked, the float was finished and plenty of baked goods were brought in for the bake sale at the Homecoming game. Because of this brilliant strategy the class joined together and pulled out a second place award for our float "Blast the Eagles".

FACULTY

Taking over a job in the middle of the year is no easy task, but our new secretary Rose Guzman has done excellent work so far!

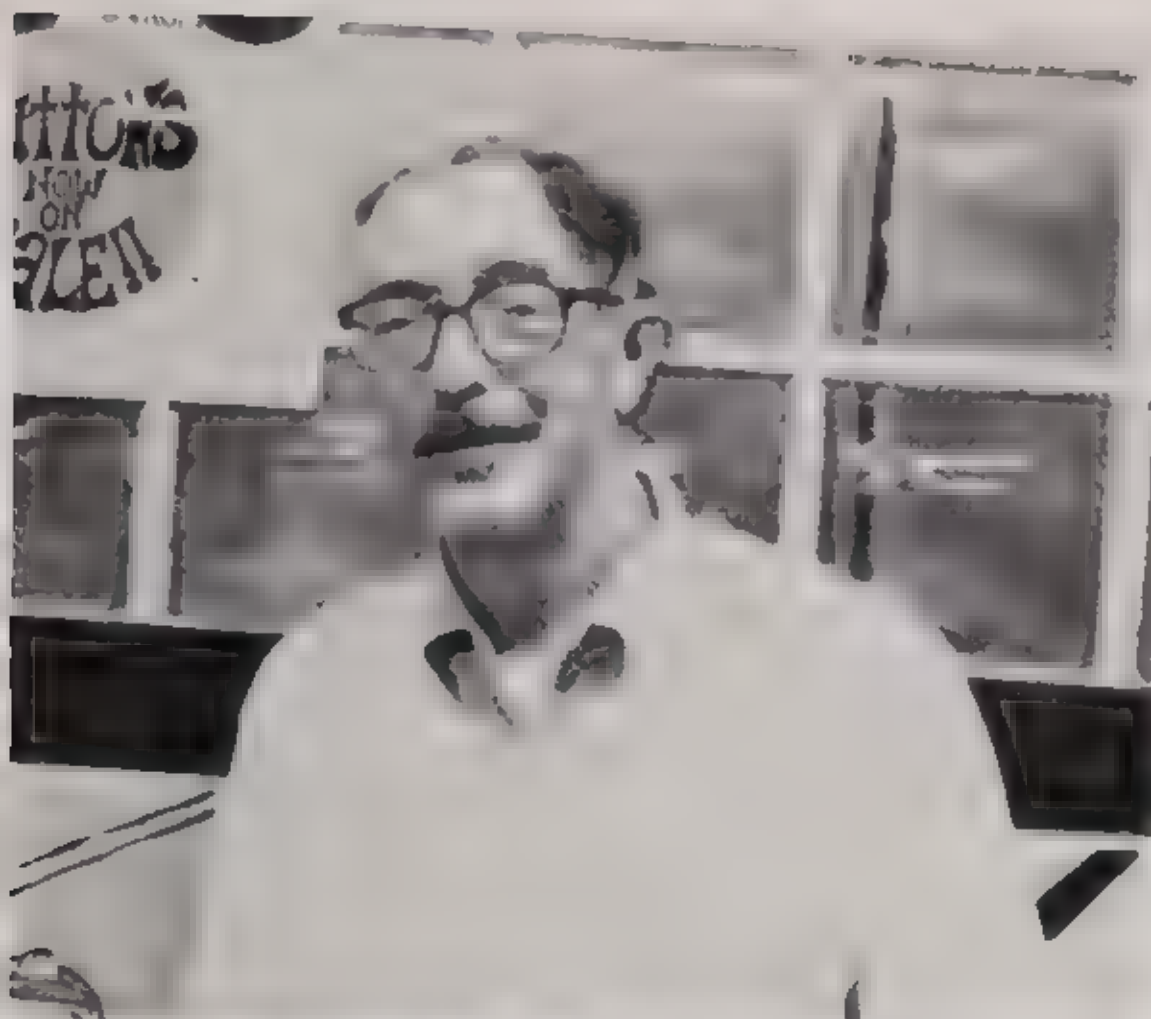

Math Department Head Miss Edwards offers help to students during lunch and after school. Cindy McCabe takes advantage of her offer.

Mr. Macray gives his History class a short break while he sets us a film projector.

The office is a common setting where teachers such as Mr. Becke can take care of business.

Efficient Effective Educators

They have spirit and they have class. Yes, our teachers, the class of the 50's, and 60's are a swell group of elders. They teach survival in our world as well as Math, English, and History!

No, the faculty never won the spirit stick or the Christmas tree contest, but they never were given the opportunity. Give them a chance and if they don't succeed the first time they'll try, try again and maybe try another time after that, but they won't give up.

Teachers were made to teach, but some of them involve themselves in other activities such as coaching or sponsoring a club or two.

Yes, the students made it through the year and so did our faculty. Many students will return next year to Heidelberg, but many will be leaving and memories of their favorite teachers will always linger in the back of their minds.

ACADEMICS

Define: Verbosity, Ubiquitous

In case one is wondering what "Verbosity" does mean, Mr. Webster defines it as "the quality of using too many words; wordy". Increasing one's vocabulary as well as reading comprehension and writing skills are stressed in the English curriculum.

It is understandable that a great deal of stress is placed on English, after all, it is our native language. To further rest one's knowledge in English, try using the word "ubiquitous", meaning everywhere at the same time; omnipresent. How do you rate as an English student?

A class at rest remains at rest until an outside force acts upon it.

A curious English Student concentrates on his book while a friend, who is quite amused looks on.

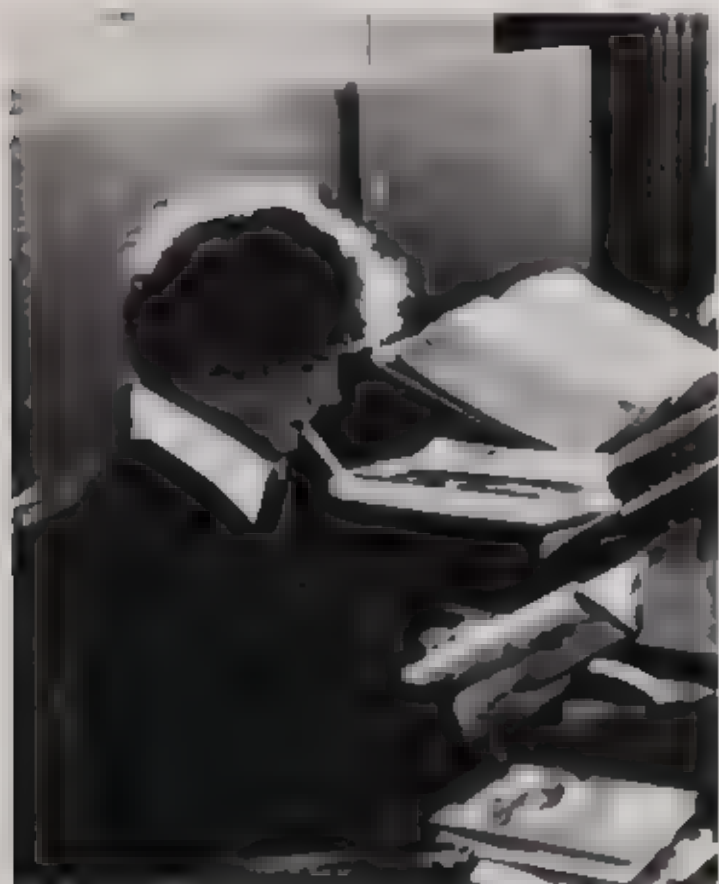

People meet, discuss teachers and class work, play games, and some, like Paul Winkel, read during their spare time

A class in motion remains in motion until an outside force (the teacher) acts upon it

The course, "Writing For College Bound requires a lot of grueling research in the library, yet, Carmen Griner finds it quite amusing

Books, books, and more books- just a few of the many resources an English student can choose from!

Development Of The Critical Eye

Displaying no lack of determination in his pursuit, Jon Herman tries to pry open his developer tank and hopes for some prize photos.

The secret of the contents of this bottle from which a picture will emerge will not be given away by Steve Campbell.

While his visage gives no expression of delight, Steve Gibson reviews his film, hoping for success.

Before they achieved superstardom, Roman Polanski and George Lucas had to start somewhere. Their humble beginnings might have been in a cinema class much like the ones offered in our school. It is hard to imagine these famous directors appearing bleary-eyed from a small darkroom after hours of developing photos. Even they had to learn about F-stops and exposures for day time and night pictures. Cinema class can be exasperating at times, especially when you have taken an all-time prize winner photo and find out it is hopelessly underexposed, or the classical picture of your girlfriend sitting on a window sill and it is not only blurred, but overexposed!

Movies provide a special challenge for the cinema students, although frustrations abound. Class can become hectic with rolls of film piled on the desks.

So, if you see a student with one eye permanently squinted and the film containers bulging from the back pockets, try to feel a little compassion for him.

Gutentag, Hola, Bonjour

In other words hello, hello, hello!

To most of us language is a series of verbs that refuse to conjugate, nouns with different determiners, and sounds that seem to get lost in the throat. Difficult stuff indeed, but who can ever forget his first intelligent sentence in a foreign tongue. Though our faces may contort in the effort to pronounce those "ü," "pf," "ch," and trying to leave the American accent out of our Spanish, there is a certain pride in saying "the dog is big" in another language.

Along with a new language, we pick up a bit of culture. What foods are eaten in certain countries, what customs are practiced, and what fashions are worn. It's always handy to know what that distant country is like and how ours is different or similar. It sure beats digging up a dictionary to ask where the toilet is!

Sometimes German vocabulary is more easily understood upside down - Bruce Robinson and John Lasley indicate that this works for them!

Translating German aloud is the best way Bob De Berardino has found to study this difficult subject.

Dusily concentrating on Spanish translation, Liz Eason and Laura Hornby get down to business while Mr. Pappas helps other students.

We The People . . .

Did King George VIII land on the shores of Newfoundland in 1492? Did the Continental Congress elect Daniel Boone for president? Did the Renaissance start in Australia? These are probably the questions asked when a student faces a history exam, be it U.S. or World.

Eventually we hope to straighten these minor mistakes out. With filmstrips, movies, reports, and the like, we try to put World History and U.S. History dates into perspective. In any case, it requires a lot of memory work.

Once one has reasonably figured out the basic order of events, he can go on to bigger and better things such as U.S. Government. With 1980 as the year of the Presidential election, this course is of particular importance to seniors. With names like Reagan, Carter, Brown, Kennedy, and Connelly constantly in the news, it helps to know voting procedure and how this country's constitution came into being.

Doreen Dick appears to want to put an end to the conversation and do the assignments as are Chris Nowarski and Sonna Arcarai, however, Mike Davis rattles on.

Ready and willing to contribute to her history class, Sue Perry wears the smile of a student who knows all the answers.

Reading the material, such as Bruce Jenson is doing, from the new psychology books is an important assignment because of the background information needed in group discussions.

Group discussions dominate many class hours in psychology, evidence prevails in this second hour psychology course

There is a saying, When in Rome, do as the Romans do. This saying embodies the course of Humanities as well as Sociology. Both classes deal with people and their environment. Humanities concerns the cultural differences between people, whereas Sociology teaches students the different racial classifications.

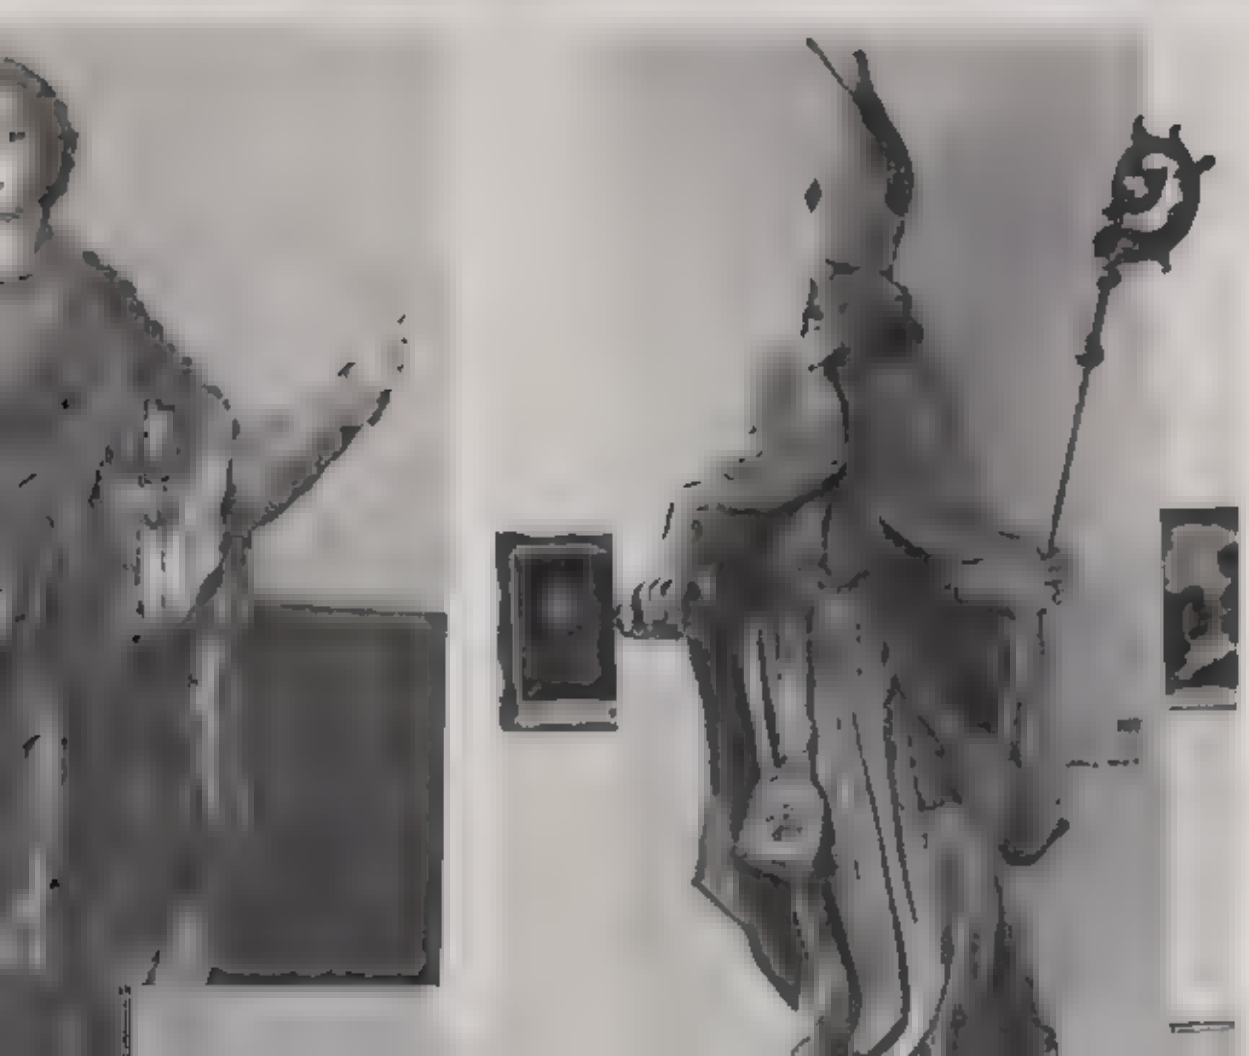

Psychology studies dig deeper than outer characteristics. It deals with the mind. Psychology classes can often be seen watching filmstrips on mental illness or discussing the theories and experiments of Jung and Freud. The controversy of parapsychology is also a favorite topic of discussion. In any case, with the field of mind expansion growing due to the success of transcendental meditation and other forms of meditation, psychology has become an important part of education.

The World Goes Round And Round

History teaches Monica Partman the importance of the constitution and government

Politics is a touchy subject and there are those who feel it shouldn't be discussed. In CPS (comparative political systems) and often in Economics this is the major topic of conversation. World affairs, their effects on trade and contrasting political systems are researched and debated upon. "An awareness of the world", as one teacher put it, "is of great importance to our society." If this is the case Economics and CPS students have a long way to go before they even begin to understand politics.

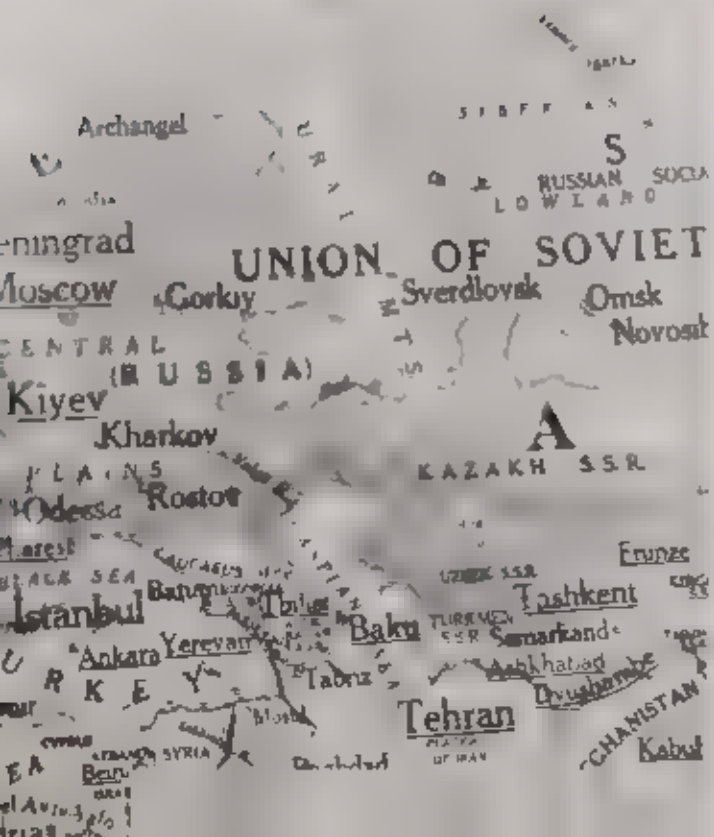

World Regions also includes researching and debating, but it involves the physical characteristics, the culture and people of different countries rather than its politics. To read about a country and understand its people and traditions is the basic goal of this course.

Concentration is the name of the game. One can see Bert LaMarch and Donna Lackey are following the rules.

A rare moment in a World Region class-four students are working at the same time.

At first glance one can't tell which class this is, but with the inquisitive looks on these faces, one will realize it is a Chemistry class

There is nothing like a good rousing problem in chemistry or physics to clear the brain. Though this brain clearing may last well into the wee hours of morning, it is beside the point. Often Chemistry students seem to be hunched permanently over their notebooks figuring out the number of moles in a substance. Balancing equations are a favorite Saturday night past time. Abbreviations, such as "STP" are a part of the Chemistry student's vocabulary. Physics students on the other hand held a fascination for ripple tanks. They worked with light prisms and solved problems on gravity and acceleration. Isaac Newton, an important figure in a physics class, leaves his legacy as students try to understand his many theories.

Numbers, Numbers, They Boggle The Mind!

One plus one is two. Two times two is four. Those were the good old days of mathematics, when little did we realize that courses like geometry, trigonometry, calculus, and algebra I and II would be a part of the future. For better or for worse, they are a part of our daily lives.

Geometry students wallow in HT, HA, LL, ASA, and complementary angles. Algebra students delight in equations such as $x = \frac{-b \pm \sqrt{b^2 - 4ac}}{2a}$, while more diligent students that may be found in calculus or trig classes work until midnight on a backlog of homework. In any case, at the end of the year, when we slam our math books shut, vowing never to figure out the formula for a circle $((x-H)^2 + (y-K)^2 = R^2)$, we inevitably start the next year with a groan as we try to recall past theorems and postulates for the new course.

Computers have become so popular with students in our school that they can be found in the computer room during break, lunch, and after school working away. In preparation for the computer boom, students will be ready for what is to come.

Run for Your Life!

Mr. Mittenzwey and his PE students time the shuttle run. Who will be the fastest?

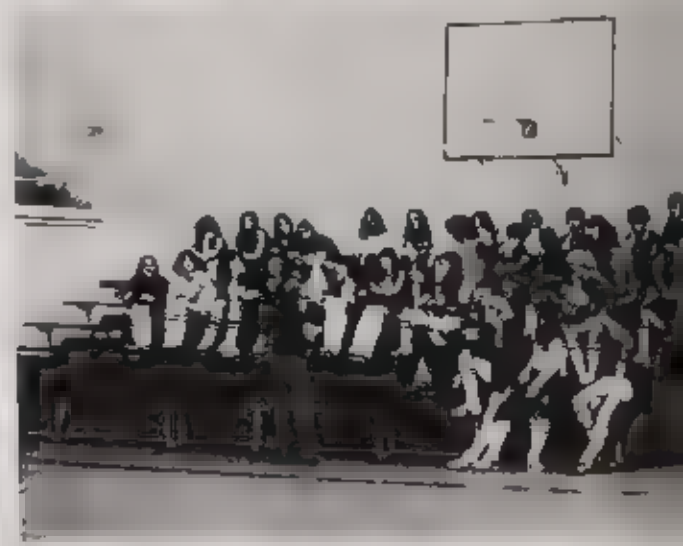

Since basketball is such a popular sport, students practice it in PE to perfection.

Sometimes a gym period may feel more like a toughening course. After several rounds of the track or gym, a rough game of basketball or volleyball and a workout on the trampoline, the groans that issue from the depths of the locker rooms seem appropriate. A physical fitness test, depending on your strength and agility, can be a particularly harrowing affair.

It is difficult to smile after one has witnessed a gymnastic ace demonstrate the art of back flips when you are working on your sommersault or a basketball star prove the easiness of shooting nineteen out of twenty baskets. A gym class, along with all those aches and pains, can keep you on your toes. As the saying goes "it is not how you did it, but knowing how to do it" that counts.

The shuttle run, part of the Presidential Physical Fitness Award is practiced by these gym students.

Before the action gets started in PE, students relax their muscles and minds.

JROTC-Still Europe's Finest

This year's JROTC is still upholding the proud history of being in the top 20%- perhaps the top in the world by having a perfect score of 100 on the Annual Formal Inspection.

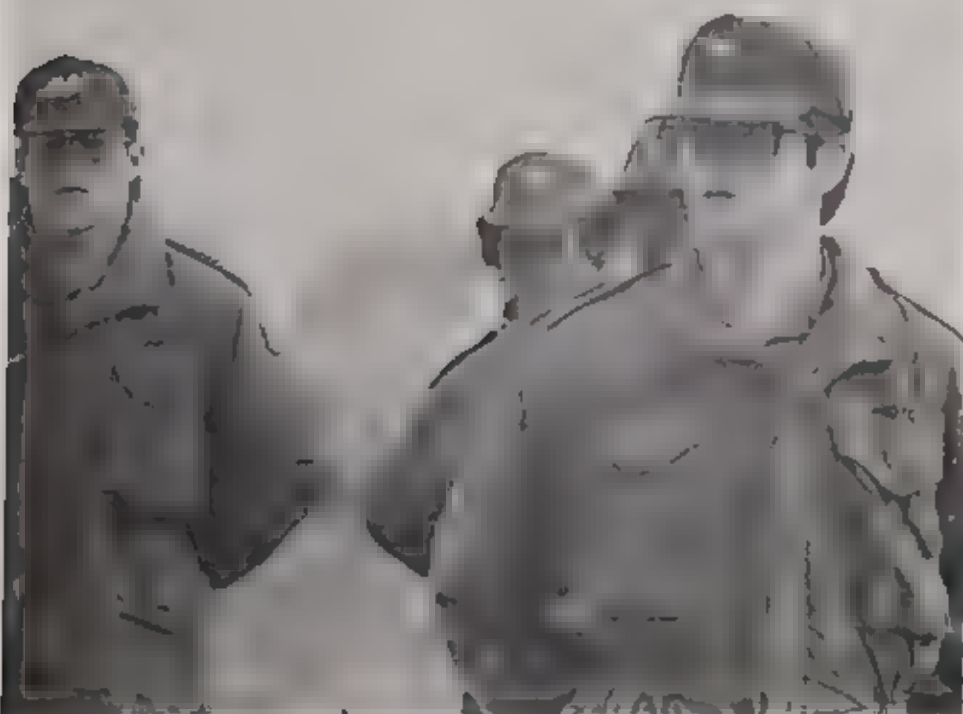

By becoming a cadet, one obtains leadership and citizenship qualities. Participating in several fieldtrips such as our visit to a French Army Unit is included in the curriculum. They also participated in many extra-curricular activities: Drill Team, Rifle Team, Color Guard, Drum and Bugle Corps and the Rangers. Cadets spend many hours of practice perfecting skills.

In addition to all this, they had several social activities such as picnics, parties, and dances. The Annual Military Ball is the highlight of the year for Cadets.

Music, Sweet Music!

Sience Then a distant rumble Suddenly the whole school shakes as room 242 erupts in sound. If one happens to be in the vicinity of room 242 (otherwise known as "The Band Room"), when it is in full action, one will probably recognize melodies such as "Rocky", "Horse", "We're Here to Cheer for You, Our Lions", "Hot Stuff", and a "Doobie Brothers' Medley". The music department does not only specialize in marching band, for those who don't relish blowing into a trumpet or picking strings on a guitar, there is always chorus or Music Theory.

Students expressing themselves musically, can also get involved in the Stage Band. This group of musicians plays under the direction of Mr. McConnell. They performed during the year in a talent show and at PTSA meetings.

With Mrs. Kuhn and Mr. McConnell urging the music students on, we might have a future Donna Sommer, John Denver or Liberace amongst us.

Music soothes the savage beast, but guitar students John Williams, Ron Horner, Kevin Jakes, and Michelle Smith seem determined not to be subtle.

With true Simon and Garfunkel harmony, Ron Horner and John Williams play in unison.

This turkey would not be complete without the stuffing being prepared by Nilah Goodwin and Dineen Spille

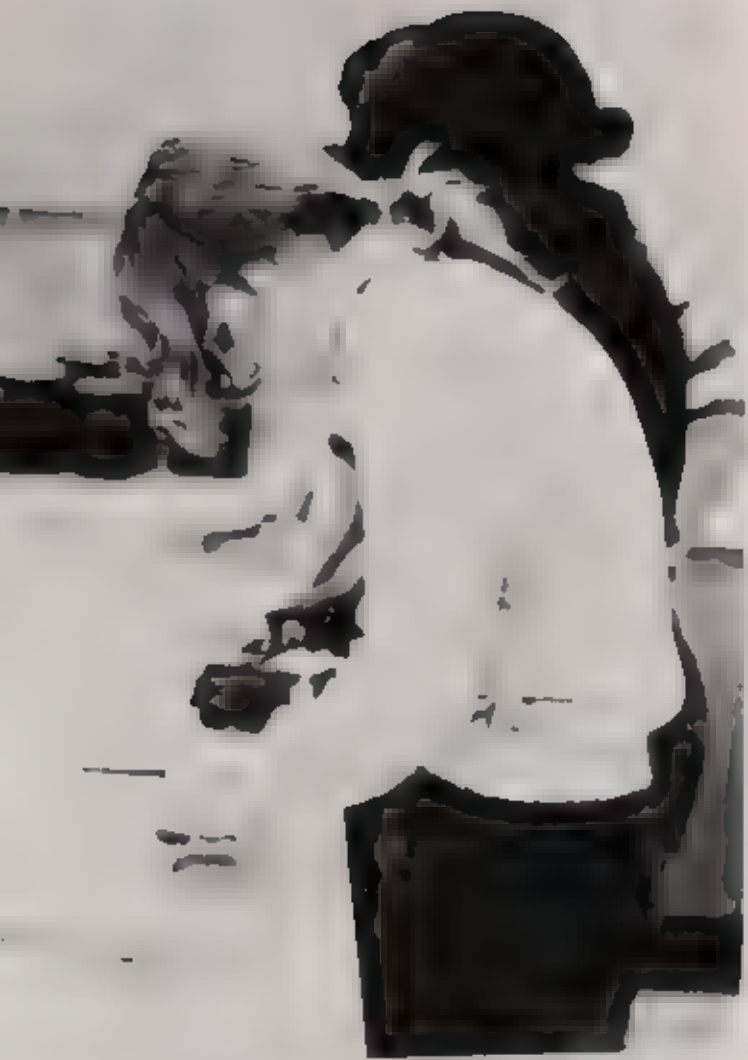

Have you ever shoved a pan full of cake batter into the oven, only to remember that you had forgotten to put in the flour? Perhaps your mishap occurred when you planned to saw a board 2 feet wide and later discovered that you had cut it 3 feet wide

If you have encountered any of these problems, a Home Ec. class or an Industrial Arts course will more than likely remedy these types of mistakes. From learning the basics like knowing what ingredients to use in preparing a turkey dinner, students learn what it means to be a first rate cook. Future carpenters must learn which tools to use. Student tailors first try to feel at home with a sewing machine before trying to compete with the latest fashions. Patterns range from "Simple To Sew" for beginners to "Designing Fashions" for those would be Christian Dior's. From first learning to wield a ruler, Industrial Arts students plan future homes by constructing models

Home Ec doesn't just offer food and clothing classes but also marriage and family living, child development and the ever popular "single living" classes are part of the curriculum. For those not interested in Home Ec, Industrial Arts offers a different perspective

Imagine stepping into the dentist's office, only this time the student is not the patient, rather he is an aid to the dentist. What better way to learn what a teacher's school day is like than to assist a teacher! These programs, known as Cooperative Work Experience (CWE) are offered to students as Career credits. For an hour or two a student has a chance to see beyond the everyday classroom. He can try his hand at an activity which might help him later in choosing a vocation.

Other courses designed to steer students toward desired careers are offered at Darmstadt Career Center. These students may choose from welding, cosmetology, auto mechanics, auto body repair, graphic arts, and dental assisting.

The knowledge of small engine repair is always useful. It sure would be nice to have William Castle, Porter Ellis, and Cleeny Goode around the house!

There is something intriguing about watching a painting take form. Scratches become lines, lines become figures, and figures eventually compose pictures. Be it ink, oil, charcoal or pen, black and white or multi-colored, the magic evolves.

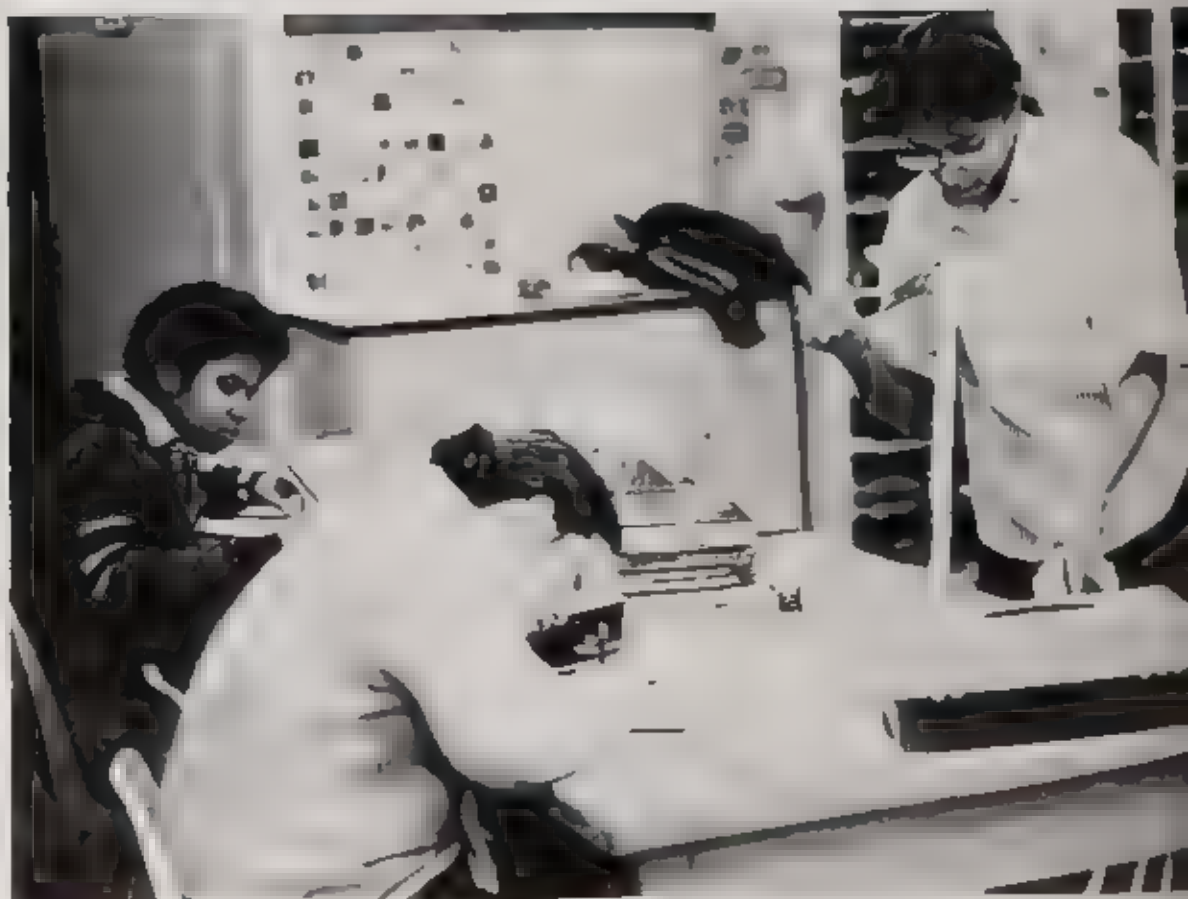

Many say artwork expresses an artist's individualism; from the variety of paintings, pottery, and constructions in the art room, this certainly seems to hold true. In any case, these students have come a long way from those finger painting days.

The art course can be fun as well as educational. Colors, great painters, and many forms of art are studied. Those of us who still rely on stick figures when drawing people or have problems creating a blade of grass on a piece of paper, can surely appreciate the thought and hard work that goes into one of the art projects.

The Voice Of Our People

Representing the entire Student Body was the main function of the Student Council. Direct communication to the faculty was established through the organization of the Student Council. They tried to inform the faculty about student requests and suggestions which would improve our school.

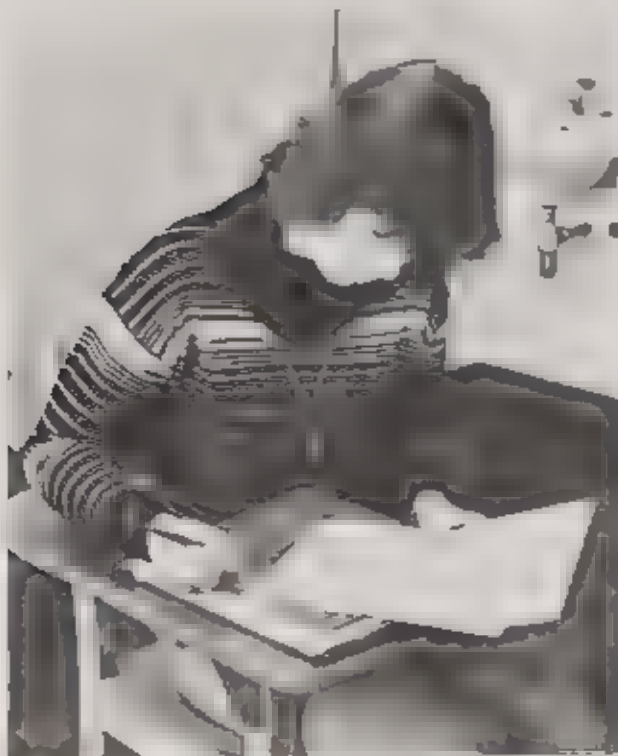

Quite a bit went on at the meetings. Parliamentary procedure was used during debates. Problems in the school were discussed, as well as possible ways in which students could help solve the problems. Various activities were planned for the student body such as the information booth, new Student Orientation, Octoberfest, and Homecoming Activities and dance.

Hard work and determination went into all meetings and activities, a great school was the final product.

The National Honor Society is an organization designed to recognize outstanding academic achievement, leadership, and service to the community on the part of high school students in the United States. The NHS chapter of this organization carries on the tradition of scholarship, leadership, and service that has been established in the past. There is a certain pride in being an National Honor Society member and having one's academic excellence recognized, yet there is also a responsibility to maintain that excellence, and to see one's skills and knowledge to benefit others. This is the reason behind the free tutoring program offered weekly by National Honor Society members.

Future Diplomats Of The World

Two of the many people representing different countries at the Mock Security Council.

For Rose Ulcak, making changes to her proposed resolution.

This year's Model United Nations Club represented the USSR, Qatar, and Bhutan. In January the club attended the 12th annual session of the Model United Nations sponsored by the American High School of the Hague, Netherlands.

On the first day the Delegates lobbied for their resolutions at the Hague. The MUN began officially on January 30th with opening speeches from all delegations. The following day was devoted to committee meetings in which delegates debated formal resolutions covering a wide range of international issues. On February 1st two days of general assembly meetings began. Resolutions adopted by the committees were reconsidered during two days of heated debate.

The MUN club's other major activity is sponsoring the Mock Security Council each spring. The MSC follows a format very similar to the MUN. The MSC serves as a training session for students who desire to participate in future Model United Nations.

Making A Game Out Of War

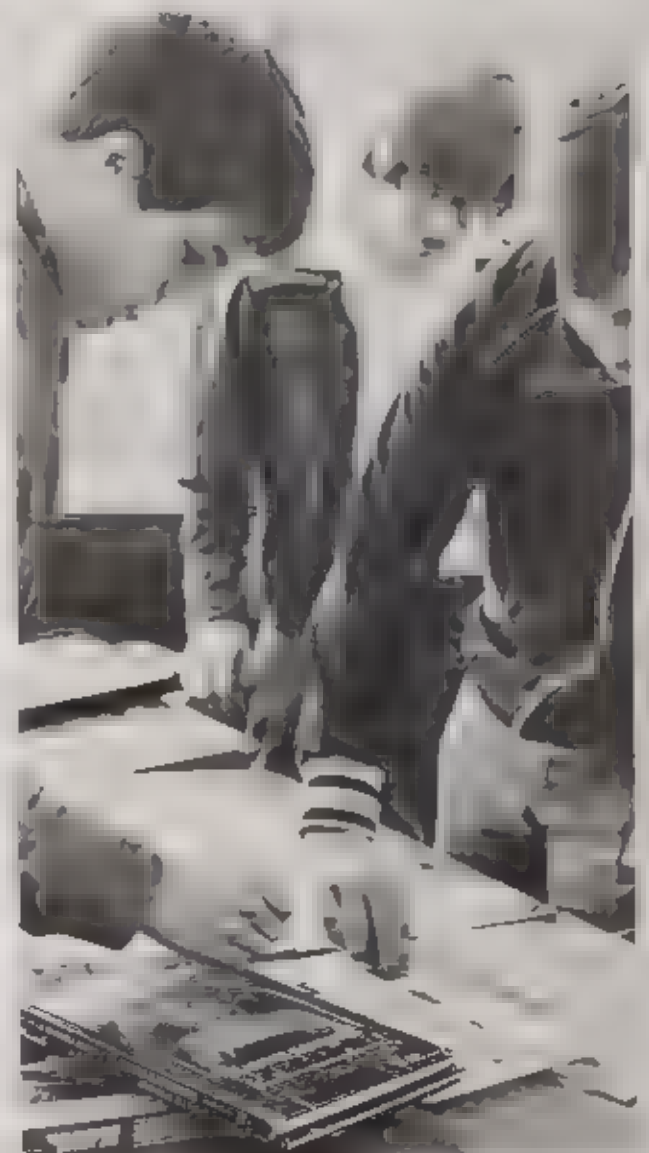

One of the newer clubs in the school, these people met to play Wargames. They replayed battles from the Medieval period and earlier, constructed possible modern scenarios. Some people liked the many role-playing games and some preferred being the leaders of legions. They represented Heidelberg at the Rhine Wargames Tournament, but usually they just stayed home and changed the course of history! Did the barbaric hordes overcome Rome? Will the world be destroyed by a nuclear blast? Only time (and the Heidelberg wargamers) will tell ...

A Student Anthology

The Brörchen staff composed an outstanding literary magazine this year using art work and compositions contributed by the students of HHS. They worked hard earning money by running the Student Council concession stand and selling the magazine. This year's magazine got off to a good start. They began earlier this year and have had to work extra hard due to lack of membership, but despite these hardships the magazine was successfully completed.

For the last 5 years Brörchen has published successful literary works of art.

Student Prints

As the deadlines came closer the Student Prints' staff worked extra hard, long hours to fulfil the requirements. The circulation desk, which consisted of co-editors and page editors, did the layouts and pasted them for preparation for the printers.

Most of the work was done by the journalism class, though outside articles were accepted. Selling papers every 5 weeks and working in the Student Council concession stand were the ways they made money to keep the presses rolling.

Lights, Camera, Action

This picture shows that a typical drama club meeting is definitely not as traumatic as a major performance.

Straying up to the wee hours of the night memorizing line after line, the initial shock of facing a large audience with spot lights beating down on you, and finally relieved when the act is over and the curtains closed are just a few tasks the Drama Club faces.

The major performance this year was the Christmas play, "A House Without A Christmas Tree". That production was planned for the enjoyment of the elementary schools and was very well done. Several other plays were organized and carried out throughout the year.

Track and Field enthusiasts know that a perfect track meet is run on a warm sunny day, on a soft synthetic track, and with a roaring crowd to cheer all the athletes on. In Germany that's a rare scene to find. Track meets here are held in rain or shine, on a dirt or cinder track, with little or no crowd but the athletes themselves to cheer. Despite all the downfalls of the conditions here, the excitement is still there.

The H.H.S. Track team started off with little preseason practice, trying to get their ragged bodies back into shape after a winter of relaxation. The first practice meet at Ansbach gave hint to the success the team would have throughout the season, with the Lions capturing top places in both the men's and women's competition.

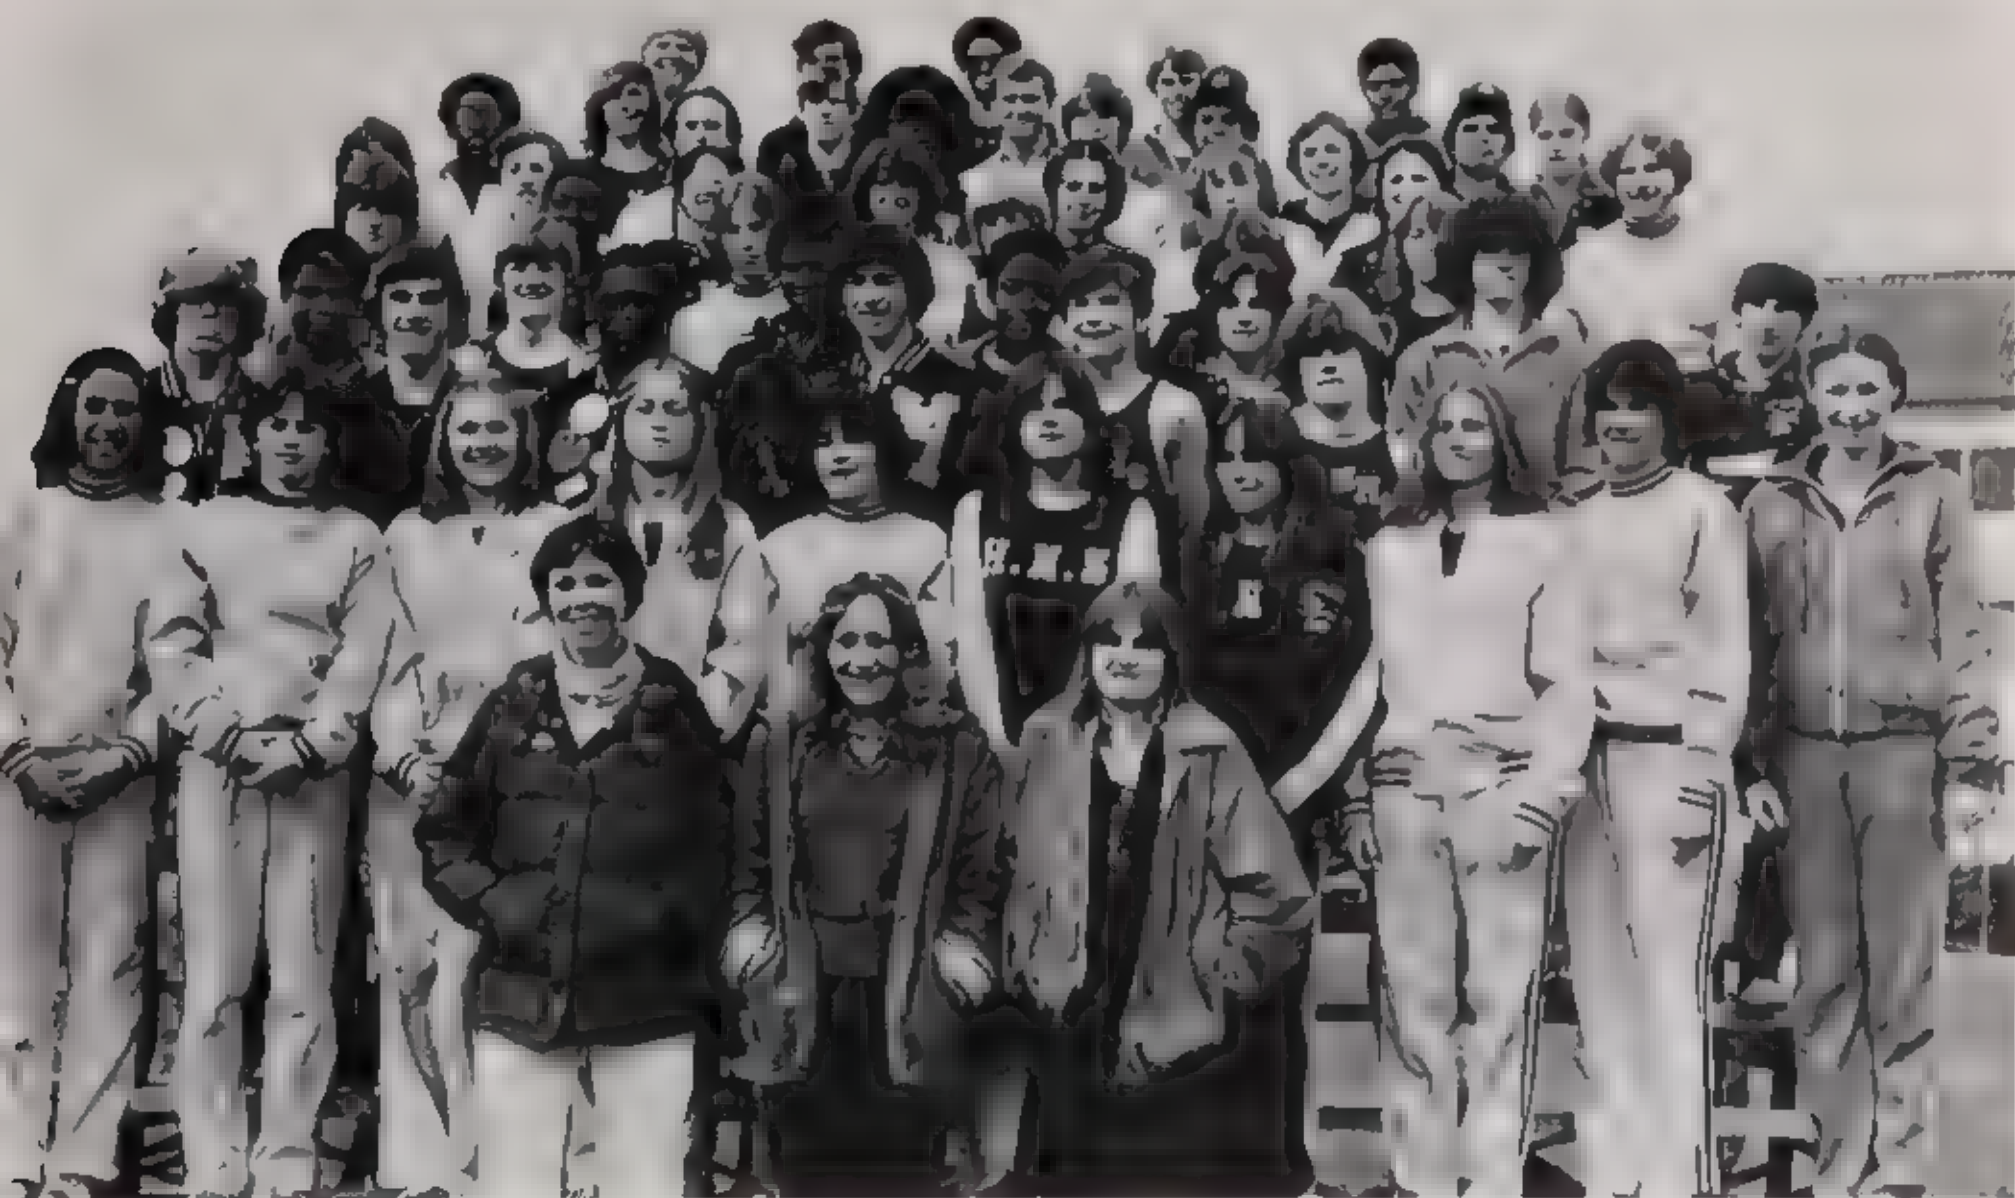

The women's team, living up to their expectations, remained undefeated until the last meet of the season. In this meet Wiesbaden was not originally scheduled to participate, but because the coaches felt the girls needed tougher competition to get them ready for finals they were allowed to come to Heidelberg and take part. Competition turned out to be as tough as the coaches hoped for, with both Heidelberg and Wiesbaden taking the lead in different events. The meet boiled down to the 1600 meter relay—a do or die. Complete silence. "Runners take your mark"—"set"—DANG! Simultaneously their teammates jumped and yelled with encouragement. Heidelberg and Wiesbaden sprinted stride for stride until the fourth leg where Wiesbaden pulled ahead to capture the relay and the meet . . . by 2 points. But the girls did not give up, their almost perfect season gave them confidence going into the Germany Finals.

The men's team experienced a similar incident during the meet at Stuttgart.

Staying point for point with Stuttgart up until the last event where they too were nudged out in the 1600 meter relay. During the regular season the men did not walk away with as many victories as the women. But in finals the tables were turned where the men did much better than was expected and the women failed where some victories were hoped for.

The season would not have been as successful had it not been for the care and dedication of Head Coach Larry Philpot and his special events coaches Rich Bennett (all-around), Albiston and Mirrenzwey (distance), and Sisson (sprinters). The sports banquet brought the season to a close with awards being presented to John Leighton and Debi Dassonville as the team captains, Harold Jones and Mary Libbey the most valuable, and Thurston Hurst and Kari Dassonville the most improved.

Dream On, Dream On . . .

These words could be heard when ever soccer players were seen. But they had a right to dream, and their dreams became a reality. For the second year in a row, Heidelberg High School Varsity Soccer Team was the European Champion.

At the beginning of the season they lost their first practice game in an overtime to Frankfurt, and then their second game to Augsburg. With this fore it made the thought of being champions so far away, tucked deep in a cloud.

But by defeating their first opponent, Mannheim, they began to climb a ladder a ladder to their dream. And by successfully defeating each of the other opposing teams in their conference they continued to climb each step of the ladder, until finally they had one special cloud- their dream. Stuttgart, May 19, 1979 and the championship game was underway. They played hard with ever lasting enthusiasm, because when fifteen guys are all out to capture the same dream, nothing is going to stop them. Heidelberg returned home with a 2-0 victory and the title of European Champions.

JV teams always seem to get the short end of things - the early morning game, the empty bleachers, little coverage, and the old faded varsity uniforms. But to our future stars this was hardly a crisis. They accepted the hand-me-downs, made the best of them, and proceeded to be the number one team in Germany. Our heroes skillfully managed to score a total of 30 goals against their opponents and allowed only 2 to be scored against them. By winning all but one game they became the Red Division Champions. On May 19, a battle between the Red and Blue champs took place, with Heidelberg defeating Stuttgart 2-0. Our Hand-me-Down Heroes reigned over Europe- the 1979 European Champions.

Hardwork and determination prompted H.H.S.'s tennis team to a year of success. Coached by Mr. Fuller the team went to the top with a perfect record of 8 wins and 0 losses. The bus rides back home with the wild and crazy soccer team always seemed to serve as one big party, everyone was a winner. But by the time Monday afternoon's practice rolled around, the celebration was over and preparation for the next weekend's challenge was made. Drills on stroking, serving, volleying and overhead smashes helped to improve and strengthen each player's weaknesses. Quite often Coach Fuller would add a little strategy that just might make the difference in winning or losing a point. Each member of the team added something special, but for over all leadership two players stood above all. The women's team turned to Captain Kitty Cole for an extra word of encouragement and the men's team turned to Captain Peter Langendorf for extra support. Our standing players that proved to be most valuable were Tracey Djerke and European Men's Singles Champion Kim Soh.

As the year progressed two players showed an extra effort and were awarded Most Improved; Valerie Nieves and Rick Malone. When the season came to a close the team's dedication was not in vain, for they reigned #1

As the 1978 football season ended thoughts went as to what this year's football team would be like. With most of last year's team being primarily seniors, things didn't look very hopeful. As the summer progressed and training started coaches began looking for new faces and large bodies, but they were not to be found. With only 5 returning varsity they realized then they would have to go with this young and inexperienced team. Everyone was apprehensive, even the players, but the will to win was there. They wanted what every one kept telling them they could never have. This, of course, was the conference championship.

Before regular season play there was a scrimmage against Frankfort. It turned out to be as expected, not very successful. The team was down and they knew all that could get them up was hard work. Practices were tense and the coaches expected no less than every one's best at all times. The first game of the season was dreaded and very rightly so. K-town, known as a powerhouse, scored 12 points in the first half of the game. The defensive team came to life in the second half preventing K-town from scoring again. The game ended 12-0. Our offensive, having a rough time getting together, went into action in the Nurnberg game scoring for the first time during the season. The defense started its trend of preventing any goals to be scored. Victory tasted good and they didn't want to lose it now. The next three games against Birtburg, Wurzburg and Mannheim were played well and the team now knew they could have what they wanted. The next game against Stuttgart, was to determine the conference championship. From the beginning of the game it was apparent which team really wanted it more. Our lion men were hitting harder and running plays better than ever. They had hit their peak. Now they had what they wanted, they were the champions. The last game of the season was scheduled to be the winner of the Blue Division against the winner of the Red Division. This was considered to be the European Championship. Again it was Heidelberg against Kaiserslautern. But their team was too much, the game ended as the season started, we were beat. But the season was not a waste, no it was much the opposite, it was a success for the players, coaches, and fans.

For the next few weeks following the playoffs there was still suspense. The All-Conference and All-European selections still hadn't been announced. When it finally did come our Heidelberg made a good show with 8 players being named All-Conference and 5 of those being chosen for the All-European team. Stars and Stripes had one more honor to bestow upon Heidelberg, this was considered by all to be the biggest reward received all season. "Head" Fred, as known by his players, was named Coach-of-the-year. It seemed like awards were never ending. At the Fall Sports banquet more honors were bestowed. Most Valuable Defensive Back: Skip Luck, Offensive Back: Eric Evans, Defensive Lineman: Mike Schroeter, Offensive Lineman: Alan Howard, MVP: Eric Evans, Kirby Wenger Sportsmanship Award: Eric Evans, Most Improved: Tom DeBerardino, and Honorary Co-Captains: Eric Evans and Aian Howard.

With the low expectations of the 1979 Varsity football squad the JV team was even more looked down upon. During the summer tryouts when the division was deaded all those talented sophomores and even a couple of freshmen that the JV coaches thought they'd have to work with were moved up to Varsity. This left the JV with not much to work with, but this didn't stop them. They were always out there putting out as much time and effort as the Varsity. In the first game of the season they fell to K-town. They picked up against Nurnberg and kept a winning streak by beating Birburg and Wurzburg until they met Mannheim and were defeated in a close battle. For their last game they put on a fantastic homecoming performance by downing the Nurnberg Eagles 12-6. At the Fall Sports banquet special awards were given to LaMarcus Braithwaite, Stephen Evans, and Glen Batt for outstanding performance throughout the season. On September 15 most of the members in preseason competed in the community "Mountain Goat Ramble", a three mile hilly course for women and six miles for men. Considering the amount of practice, everyone did quite well. Their times and places were encouraging as to their ability to compete in regular meets.

From the beginning of preseason the women's team looked very promising. They already had the ability and potential to win, and as soon as they began practicing they were able to not only win, but to wipe out the other teams! The first meet was away at Birburg where the varsity women had an almost perfect score. Only one Mannheim runner placed before the scoring five from Heidelberg. The varsity men did as well. Their top five runners finished before the top five from both Mannheim and Birburg. The first meet was quite a success with all four teams placing first in their categories.

Berlin proved to be another exciting trip: setting up dance rooms on the train, going ice skating, shopping, and just walking around town. In between these activities they did find time to run, and were successful at it too. The women again came out on top. The men were given second place after a long discussion of the coaches as to whether or not they should disqualify the top runners from Porch for taking short cuts.

Herb Cork led the men's team the whole season long. Following him was Chris Vargas until he suffered an injury towards the end of the season. Billy Hemmer, Geoff Arnat, Mike Davis, Dave Morrison, Louis Liberatore, Bruce Robinson, and Kevin Bidwell were the other varsity runners. The women were led by Kelly Bennett, who also suffered an injury halfway through the season, and Kathi Dassonville, Lori Campbell, Kristi Dassonville, Mary Wagner, Leigh Harrison, Lisa Rusiewicz, and Sheila O'Brien rounded out the rest of the team.

Germany Finals was held here at the Heidelberg Golf Course on October 27. Both men and women participated to make the total over approximately 300 athletes. Due to an illness on the women's varsity team they decided to take a chance and compete with only six runners instead of seven. This way the JV team would also have a chance at the Championship. Coming into the finals with a 13-0 record the women's team remained on top and finished with both the Class A Championship and the Germany Championship. The overall places were Lori Campbell sixth, Mary Wagner eighth, Kori Dassonville eleventh, and Kristi Dassonville thirteenth. The JV women ran a good race led by Melinda Roosendaal and the team placed second in Germany and first Class A. Herb Cork put in a fine performance for the varsity men and placed second Class A and seventh overall. The JV men's team also placed first overall and Class A. Marc Ellenbogen led the race and placed first overall. After the races were completed the women pulled out their shaving cream to celebrate all the victories and another battle between the men and women began.

The long and rough season was over after Germany Finals, that was, for all but five selected runners. Each of these five members were given an invitation to attend the European Finals in Wurzburg. Only the top 15 runners from Germany and the top from each of the other countries were invited. On Nov. 10, Herb Cork, Lori Campbell, Mary Wagner, and Kathi and Kristi Dassonville met at Wurzburg along with 13 whole spectators to cheer them on. Both the men's and women's race was run at a very fast pace, which was expected since only the top European runners competed. Final results proved that the Women's team was definitely the best in all of Europe by placing all four runners in the top ten. Kathi Dassonville led the team with a fifth place, Kristi Dassonville came later with an eighth, Lori Campbell placed ninth, and Mary Wagner came across at tenth. Herb Cork ran a tough race and came across the line for a twelfth place.

Straining to finish finals, Kevin Bidwell sprints to the end.

The Almost Perfect Season

The volleyball season was a successful one as both the Varsity and Junior Varsity lost only one match each during regular season play, compiling identical 9-1 records. However, the Varsity, seeded second in the Class "A" Tournament was upset by both Nurnberg and Birburg and did not finish in the top four despite a thrilling victory over the eventual champion, Hanau. Top performers for the Lady Lions were Nancy Fiala, Best All-Around Player, Patty Lee, Most Improved Player, and M.V.P. Linda Johnson. Other Varsity letter winners were Laurie Korth, the Clutch Player Award recipient, Jasmyn Dickason, Heidi Bennett, Susan Danielson, Tracey Bjerke, Noelle Packard, Sandra Pagua, Jackie McCoy, and Treva Bjerke. The gymnasts were willing and ready to start their season's practice at the beginning of school, but due to a lack of interest in coaching, they were not allowed to practice until early in October when Mrs. Beck offered to sponsor them. From then on the Gentle Jocks devoted their time to perfecting their precision, grace, dexterity, and composing routines. On December 2nd the qualifying meet for finals was held in Hanau. Only the top six performers from each team were allowed to compete. From this, five of the Heidelberg gymnasts went to Wiesbaden to compete in European Finals on December 6, 7, and 8th. Top performer Vicky Neal, prevailing for her second year, took first in the majority of the regular seasonal meets and placed second in the European Finals. Beth Vargas followed with a tenth, Patty Williams took 21st, Laura Loryea placed 26th, and Jenny Carlin came in 27th. The team, itself, had a successful year placing third in European Finals.

Adding That EXTRA Something!

Kathy Wirkowski, Lisa Hall, Pam Kruger, Parry Kruger, Chris Merna, Faith Couvillion, and Robin Hayes

As the fall sports season ended the winter ones just began. Along with the sports goes the cheerleaders. This year a new policy with cheerleaders began, no football cheerleaders were allowed to try out for basketball cheerleading. Giving everyone a chance to participate was the main goal of this new rule.

In the clinic week over thirty interested girls showed up ready to learn cheers and anxious for tryouts. Chosen for the 1980 basketball cheerleading squad were Pam and Parry Kruger, Lisa Hall, Faith Couvillion, Kathy Wirkowski, and captain Chris Merna. Our lion mascots were Robin Hayes and Wynn Parrish. The enthusiasm and spirit the girls projected added to the excitement and thrill of each home basketball game - it was that extra something.

We're Ahead . . .

The 1980 Women's Varsity basketball team were ahead from the beginning. With nine returning varsity and three new hopefuls, the team's future could be no less than fantastic.

Six spunky seniors, three sophomores, two freshmen, and a lone junior combined to make one big family headed by Bill Mittenzwey. Rich Bennett assisted him with helpful hints and words of encouragement which were greatly appreciated by the girls. A high powered offense led by fast breaks and man-to-man pressure defense produced the highest scoring team in Heidelberg's history. The school scoring record was broken twice within the first six games with Parry Lee also breaking the school personal scoring record by one point.

Building Up For The Big One

This year's Men's Varsity basketball season got off to a shaky start. With only four returners the team had to be rebuilt and this couldn't be done over night.

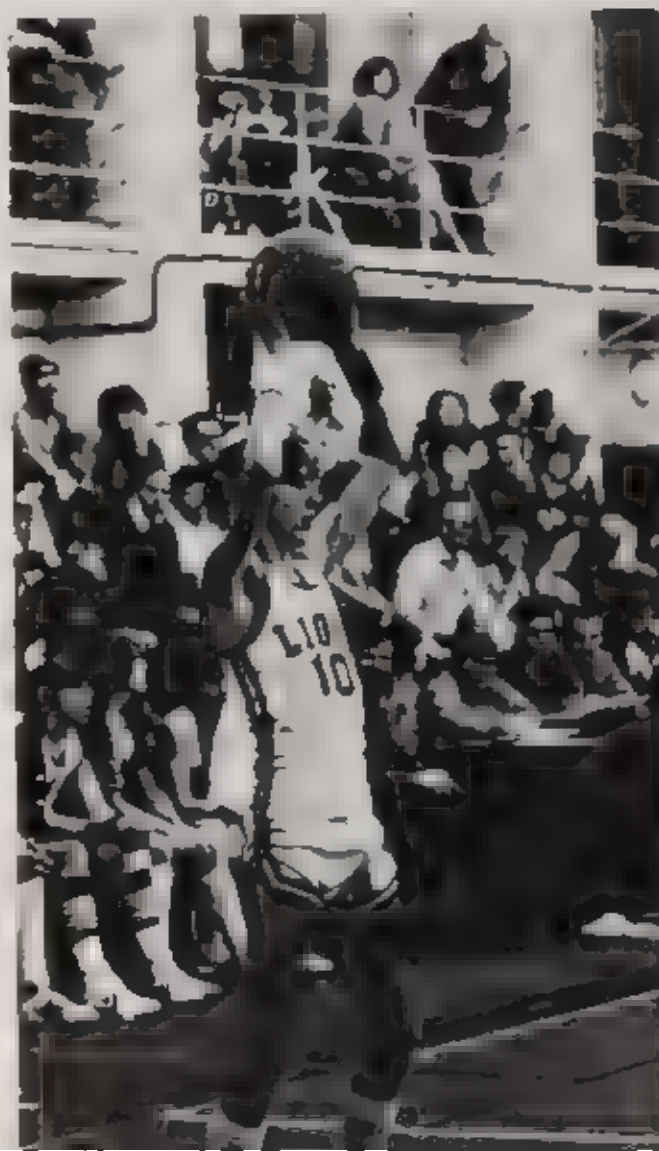

Starting in December Coach Wes Sisson started searching for the right players that would combine together as a team. Once official practice started he began an intense training program. Long hours were spent going over plays both offensively and defensively and running those body breaking minute drills.

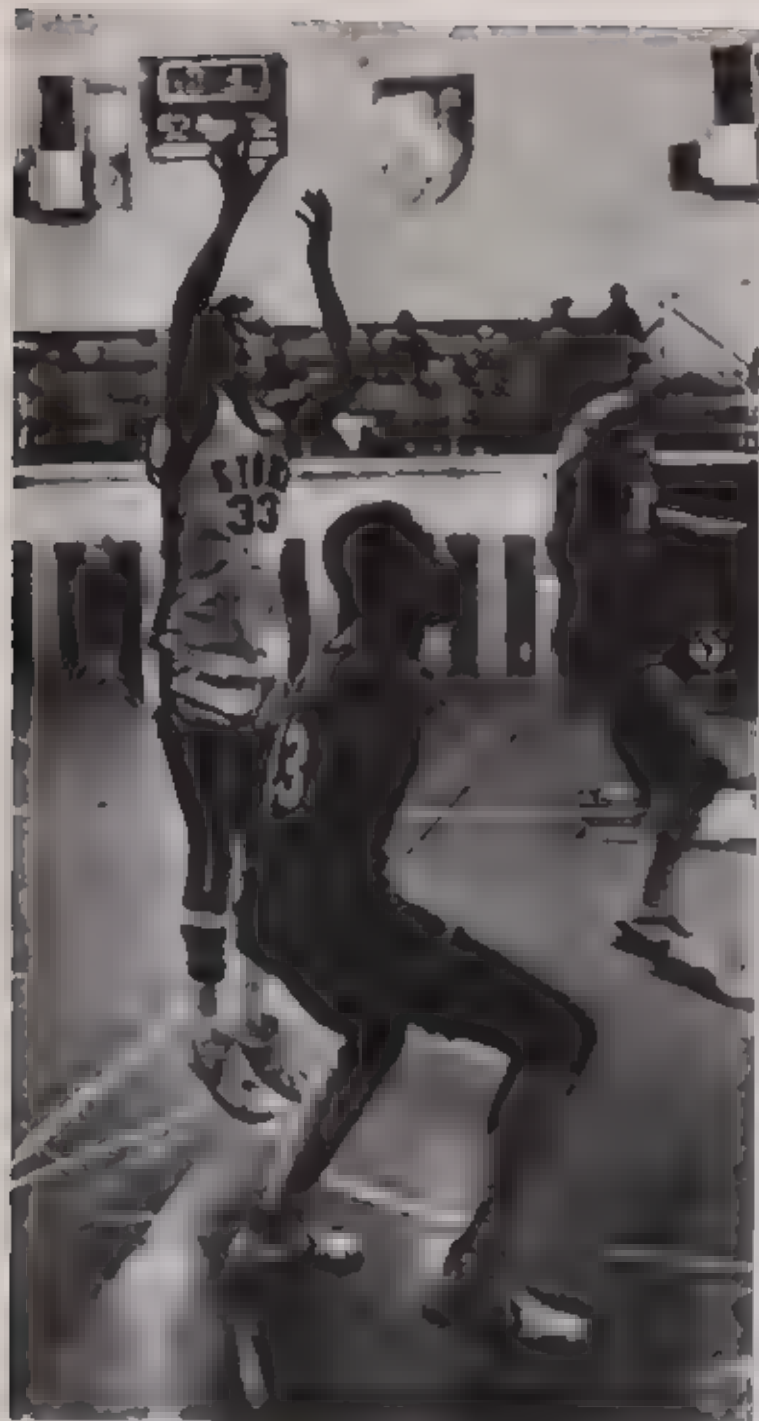

As the season opened the lions just weren't ready for what they were up against. They were able to hold on in the first half of games but fell apart under the pressures of the second half. Slowly they began to mold into a solid team until finally in the Frankfurt games things fell into place. On Friday night the Frankfurt eagles were leading going into the second half but Heidelberg came on strong and held the lead until a few mistakes in the last few seconds gave them an undeserving loss. Saturday they arrived at Frankfurt fired up and ready to seek revenge. Working as a team they took a slight lead and held it for the entire game except for once when the eagles had a hot streak in the fourth quarter. Our team easily overcame this chalking up their first win of the season. This finally meant they were on their way, as long as they kept improving a victory in the tournaments was not an impossibility. The future was looking up for this once hopeless team. They had rebuilt themselves and they were ready for the big one - Championships!

Saturday morning and occasional Friday night games gave our JV teams what they were after: experience. With coaches Mag McGinley and Mr. Liedtke, the players learned the fundamental skills of basketball and numerous offenses and defenses. With most of the players being new to the sport, this gave them a new outlook on basketball and readied them for their upcoming years as varsity players. The games were never taken lightly, being as important to them as the varsity games were.

For the girls team Beth Herre and Tracey Djerke performed exceptionally well both offensively and defensively. Steady improvement in each player was shown throughout the season.

The boys' JV players, each with their separate unique moves, worked together to pull through in those close games. Standouts for the team were Terry Legg, Chip Rives, and Brett Kernan.

The season as a whole proved to be rewarding for all those involved. For our future basketball stars, their learning season was worth all the extra effort they put into it.

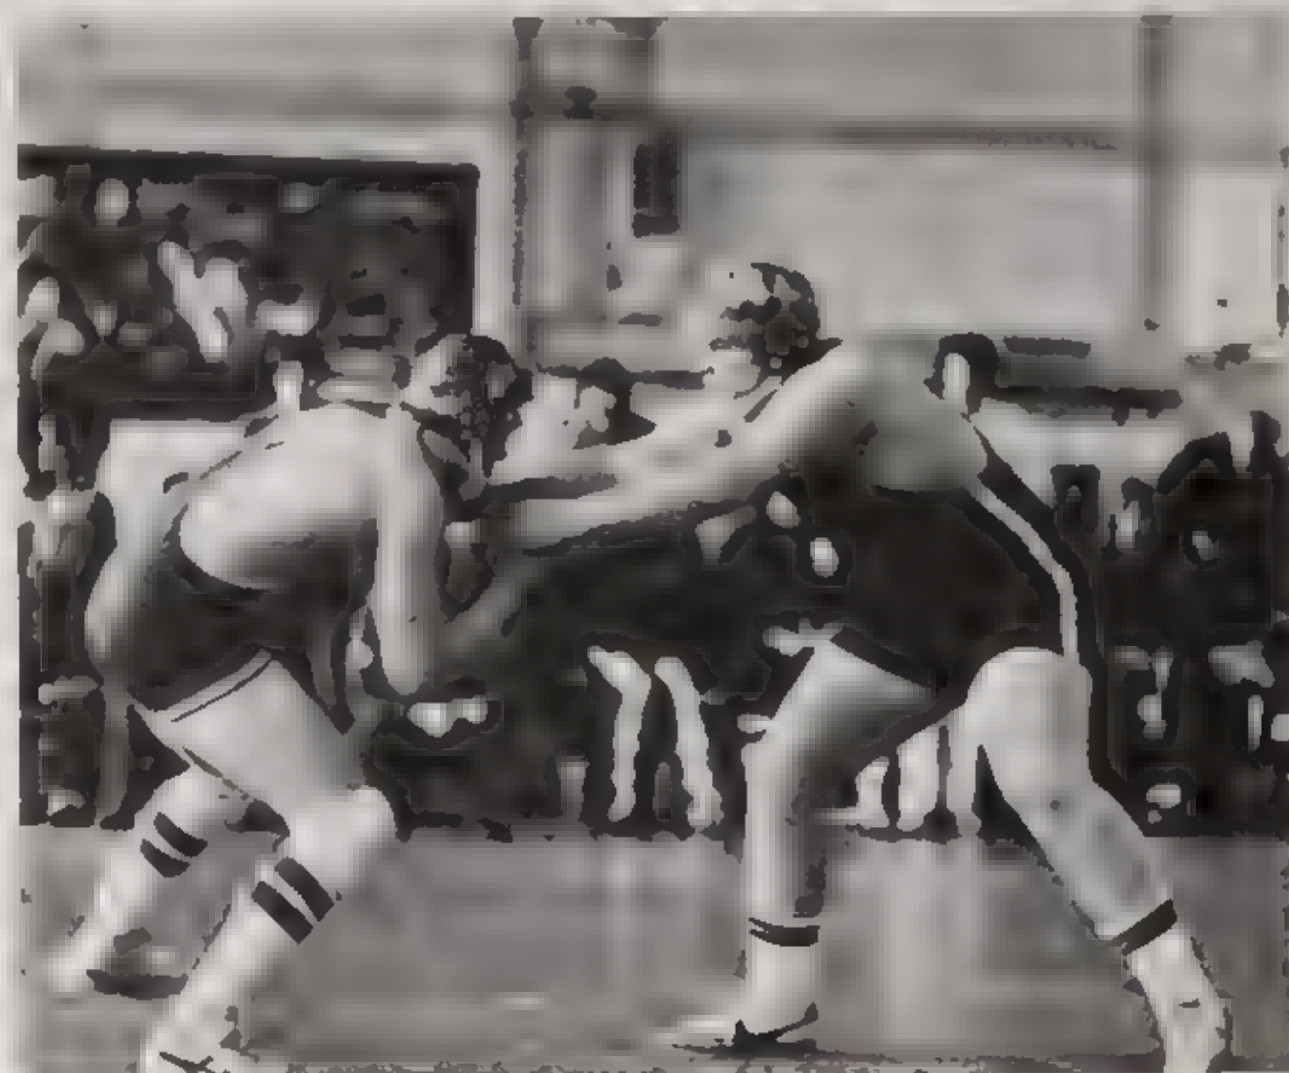

Weight Watchers

With 24 wrestlers, each weighing differently, and only 12 specific weight brackets something had to be done to squeeze each of the bodies into a separate category. From January 2nd to March 2nd these 24 muscular men worried about nothing more than food and staying under their weight limit.

Drastic measures were taken to lose weight as quickly as possible. Spitting in cups all day long and running around in plastic bags, but the most popular method was starving. Even though this was quite successful, it did have its side effects. Hunger pains woke them up in the morning and stomach gurgles were heard while sitting in classes. During break the wrestlers stood around while everyone else ran to the cafeteria for a quick snack, or lunch time people with full trays of fattening and delicious food passed them by, ignoring their drooling faces, and at night they always went to sleep with hardly a meal to cure their hunger.

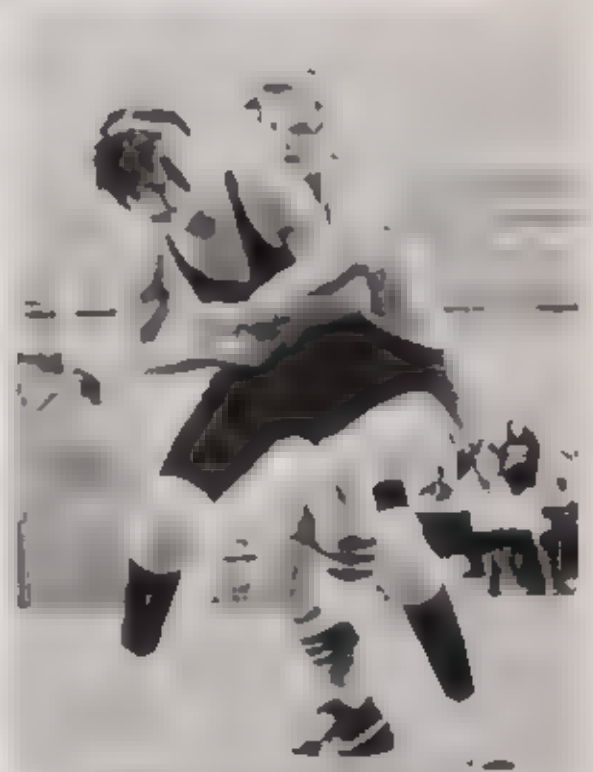

Besides starving themselves to death, the wrestlers also had to keep their bodies in shape. They spent many hours after school pumping iron and running stairs. They were trained by Coaches Meisner and Lasker and assisted by graduate Gary Brown. Lou Averill and Pam Brown were managers once again for these iron men.

Swimming, sometimes thought of as a relaxing past time, proved itself to be one of the most grueling varsity sports. The swimming year is a complicated one because it actually goes through the fall, winter, and spring seasons. Thus, if other sports are to be considered, one must be either a super athlete or drop swimming. The team practices three to five days a week and, depending on the time allowed, up to three hours in the water while coaches Mr. & Mrs. Smith, Mr. Lukes, and Mr. McHugh make it quite difficult for any pool time to be wasted by goofing-off.

Since the swimteam is not given an allowance they must earn their money to rent the pool, supply transportation and buy awards. Until 1979 they gained the money by holding a Swim-a-Thon.

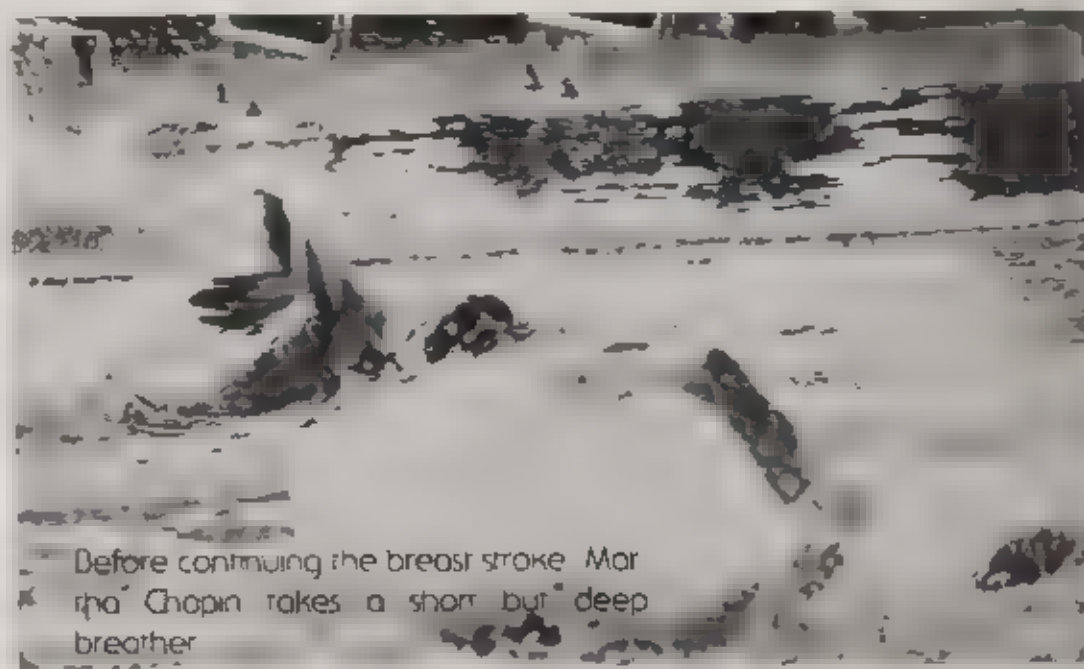

But because the coaches felt that too much money was being taken out for the Swimming Hall of Fame, the name was changed. On October 21 the first Splash-for-Cash was held at the Vogelstrang pool in Mannheim in which each swimmer swam 200 laps (approximately 3 1/4 miles) or two hours, whichever came first. Upon finishing this strenuous task, every swimmer went out to collect the money pledged to them before hand.

The 1979-1980's outstanding team was made up from the talents of eighteen super spirited swimmers, some of whom have been at it for as many as ten years. A high amount of the total team's points at swim meets were contributed by a few spectacular swimmers. In the 13-14 age group, Sissy Brainerd and John Wilkerson both excelled in the butterfly and individual medley (although Sissy was out for a couple weeks with appendicitis). The 15-18 age group had more of a variety. They were led by Fleming Brainerd in butterfly, Doug Campbell with freestyle (and broken bones), Laura Chapin in backstroke and John Dellenbeck and Andrea Jazey doing breast stroke. Topping off this list were two record breakers. Laura set a new European Forces Swim League record for the 100 meter back with a 1:15.93 while Andrea set one for the 100 meter breast with a 1:24.93. These swimmers plus the rest of the team managed to struggle through the year with a win/loss record of twelve and two.

She may be gasping for air, but it doesn't slow Debbie Modine down in the butterfly.

Before continuing the breast stroke, Marjha Chapin takes a short but deep breather.

Freestyling it to the end, Lisa Gribble doesn't waste a second catching her breath.

A long with football pre-season practices the cheerleading clinics also began. All the girls practiced hard with a high hopes of achieving the name "varsity cheerleader". This year the process by which the cheerleaders were selected was changed. The new way of selecting cheerleaders was to have the girls tryout in front of everyone at lunch with not only teachers judging but also athletes from each fall sport. Even with all this pressure the girls tried out to the best of their abilities with the top performers making the team.

Once the squad was selected the girls started right away learning new cheers and putting together ideas to build up spirit. On Thursday afternoons after school, in addition to practicing cheers, the girls would decorate lockers and make break-through banners. Their time and effort was well appreciated by the team, coaches, and crowd which took their leads.

We Love Our JV!

Their expression of love for their team was clearly shown by their bounding enthusiasm. This year's JV cheerleaders worked together after school to perfect their cheers and invent new mounts. At the football field Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday, or at the school on Thursday or Friday, you could hear their voices in unison going over cheers. On Saturday mornings they were always there bright and early ready to shout as their team ran on the field. Cheerleaders are often said to be there just for show but these girls helped keep the spirit up even when the team was down. After the away games while riding the bus home, they'd share the feeling of victory by yelling chants which the players would join in on. By the time they got to PHV, the whole bus would be rocking. After football season these girls might be forgotten by the rest of the school, but to their JV football players they will be remembered and loved.

Stacked and steady, the JV cheerleaders show their coordination and skill.

The drill team was led by Captain Dawn Scheel (12) and co-captains Susan Perry (11) and Rose Ucak (12). It consisted of 32 regulars and 8 alternates. They were able to perform at all home football games and ventured out to Mannheim Stuttgart, and then to All European championships at Kaiserslautern. Drill team also marched in the traditional Homecoming parade. Sponsors for this year were Marianne Plumer and Mrs. O'Brien. A drill team member was quoted to say, "We get better year." As for their spring activities, the drill team dazzled the fans at basketball games with their unique blacklight performances and ended the season by marching downtown in Heidelberg Fasching Parade.

Barb Rockwell led the musicians as drum major and Mrs. Kuhn directed them. During fourth hour "Hot Stuff", one of their new successes, was always heard echoing through the halls. But this was not the only time of practice. After school on the football field many hours were spent perfecting their steps and notes. Almost the whole band was new this year, only eight musicians returned. About 60% of the members were Freshmen. Because of all the new people there were some problems in teaching the steps, but none too tough to handle. One returning member stated that there was much improvement over the past years.

A Week Of Wails, Witches, Wobbling, And Weirdos?

Homecoming week this year saw the students of HHS wandering around the halls dressed up as babies' favorite characters, mortians, and even punk rockers. Each class had their own original idea. During the week, Seniors sold Homecoming mums which were distributed on Friday. Wednesday of that week was Halloween. Silly goblins, ghouls, and even tomatoes were seen wandering through the halls mumming their spookgrams or throwing out the green and orange streamers. The week ended with a pep assembly

6th period on Friday. Classes presented skits, the Drill Team performed and everyone yelled to rally the Lions on. The traditional funeral march took place as Heidelberg mourned the Eagles. That night there was a Snake dance beginning at the Teen Club and ending at the practice field where a huge bonfire was raging. More yelling and screaming took place in the glow of the bonfire until it was time to go home or put finishing touches on the

A Fanfare Of Fabulous Festivities.

Homecoming was given a different twist this year. Instead of playing Mannheim, as has been customary for the past 5 years, the Lions took on the Nurnberg Eagles November 3rd. The day began thick and foggy but the J.V. game started at 11:00 and by 12:30 the traditional parade was assembled in front of the Teen Club. Led by members of J.R.O.T.C., the parade included the Drill Team, cheerleaders, Booster Club, and class floats (which took many hours of hard work to prepare). The parade was to arrive at the field between J.V. and Varsity games and then as the football team and drill team formed a great horseshoe, the queen and her court were to be announced. Freshmen attendant Grace Balong was escorted by Mike Schroeder while Polly Brady represented the Sophomores and was escorted by Lou Austere. Susan Danielson was chosen Junior attendant escorted by Jack Gordon, as Bill Korth escorted the Senior attendant

Kathi Dasonville. When the final big moment arrived, Cynthia Rainey was crowned queen, escorted by Alan Howard. As the fans cheered, the girls were driven around the track in convertibles as the band played "Just the Way You Are". The game started as the Lions triumphed to win 14 to 6, making the day a complete success. Other winners of the day were the Juniors taking first place with their float "Execute the Eagles".

Beer, Beer For Heidelberg High

(Rootbeer that is!)

This year's Student Council was able to hold its first Oktoberfest dance in the gym on October 12. Disco music was provided as well as the Sophomore class selling wurst and root beer. To highlight the evening various contests were planned such as a root beer drinking contest, and students guessed how many gummies were in a jar. The evening continued with much more dancing. A continuous favorite which brought many on to the dance floor time and time again was "Don't Stop 'till You Get Enough". By 11:30 everyone had had enough and the dance ended a tremendous success.

Huge beer mugs were used to set the scene for the first Student Council Oktoberfest dance

Santa Came To Town

Christmas was a busy time at HHS. Students were buying mistletoe for loved ones, decorating trees to show spirit, and eagerly awaiting the biggest event of all! When the top man from the North Pole dropped by, bringing his own cure "little" elves and jolly Mrs. Claus, the students of Heidelberg had an opportunity to sit on his lap and tell him what they wanted for Christmas! After interviewing Jolly ole St. Nick it was easy to see the most popular items on the lists ... Snow ... new cars ... tickets to Va ... Texas ... and all over the states! Santa was quoted to have said he'd do his best and since the kiddies seemed so good he'd even see if he could drop by again next year

Sitting together on Santa's lap gave Heidi Bennett and Alan "Gonzo" Howard something to smile about Lady's Night . . . Down In Dogpatch!

The Sadie Hawkins dance was held Jan 11th to the delight of many dog-parchers in HHS. Using "Lady's Night" as the theme song, the yearbook staff was able to draw in a great many people. Couples arrived in traditional country duds and had a wide choice of things to do. One could find a honey and be joined together in holy matrimony by Marryin Sam, or spend the evening as a fugitive in the jail. Disco music was provided for those hoedowners who wished to "do-sey doe." Lou Averill and Chris Oviatt were the grand winners in the Lil' Abner & Daisy Mae look alike contest. Everyone seemed to have a knee slappin' good time and the yearbook staff labeled the evenin' as a wallopin' success!

Ten Years . . . in which Americans suffered growing disillusionment about their leaders, their institutions even the value of their currency. People came to the realization that there were limits to the riches of earth and were torn against themselves over an undeclared war on the other side of the world: a President was brought down after illegal acts; oil-rich Arabs transformed the balance of power in the Mideast; a mad preacher called his flock to death. These came along with an abundance of other shocking, horrifying and tenderly moving moments. These words express what has happened in the past ten years and especially the one most recent: not only world events but the ones right here in our own backyard. Heidelberg

We've Got A Ticket To Ride

Putting it all together for the Nurnberg trip was Dr. Knapp

Living in Europe gives students at Heidelberg a great opportunity to travel and see places that few other American high school students have the opportunity to do. This year's students had two great opportunities to get out and see new countries and customs. In December Dr. Knapp took a group of students to the world famous Christkindelsmarkt in Nurnberg. Arriving by train, the group toured the city sights before proceeding to the town square where many little shops were set up and one could buy a Nurnberg nut doll, roasted nuts, wurst, or select from the many famous wooden tree ornaments. The fall also saw a group of French and art students off to Paris for a few days of culture and learning another country's ways and customs. Days were spent visiting a few of the traditional sights-the Eiffel Tower, Notre Dame, Napoleon's Tomb, the Louvre, and the contemporary Pompidou center-while evenings were free for the students to indulge in the ways of the French. Upon returning, students told of the new things they had encountered but it was still nice to be home.

The Heidelberg High School Model United Nations Club, representing the USSR, Qatar and Bhutan, left for the 12th annual Model United Nations on January 28th for a week in The Hague, Netherlands. The first day was spent lobbying and meeting other delegations while the second day was spent in General Assembly. Here delegates gave opening speeches and further went on to committee meetings to come up with resolutions to world problems. The third and fourth days were spent in General Assembly debating these resolutions. Because they were representing the USSR, HHS was faced with a great many problems but they did an outstanding job representing them and were chosen as the best delegation.

Skateboarders Invade Heidelberg

One of the biggest crazes in the states has come to Heidelberg, SKATEBOARDING! Avid followers of this sport can be seen truckin' around a parts of MTV and PHV for pleasure, the challenge, or just to get around. Using their own ramp, truckers in MTV now have a place to practice their tricks and spins. Skateboarding takes much practice in order to become good at it and one can acquire a great number of bruises and scrapes from little "accidents" along the way but it's all part of the challenge and also the fun!

A Fortress Of Memories

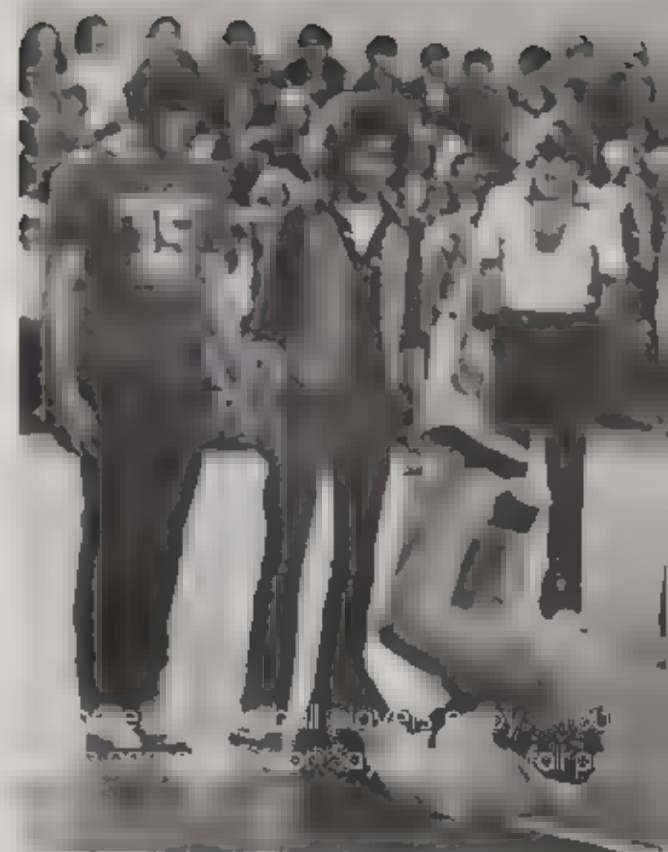

Heidelberg castle is one of the beautiful relics of this great city's past. The castle was built three different times. The first was destroyed in the late 1200's and the second was rebuilt much higher, so that it would not be in a vulnerable position to attackers. The second fortress was destroyed in 1537, and an attempt to rebuild would not be for many years later. In 1810 a man came to Heidelberg who would almost single-handedly save the old castle. His name was Graimberg, he was a count, a man of cultivation, and a painter. He fell in love with the city and the castle. The castle had become a sort of stone quarry, because of negligence. Graimberg got no help from the authorities, so he took it up on himself to renovate the castle. Because of this man, artifacts were collected dealing with the history of the castle and the Heidelberg fortress was again reborn.

Now a public monument, the Heidelberg castle is able to be enjoyed by everyone. It has special meanings to many of us here in Europe. The castle has been a place for us to go and share the grandeur of it's being. Heidelberg would never be the same without it.

it has been said that spirit at HHS is not what it used to be, but that didn't stop students this year from trying to prove this theory wrong. During the year students occasionally were given the opportunity to fire into the gym and holler and scream at each other in the hope of winning a coveted Spirit Stick. The contest involved wild chanting until the final climax when a winner was chosen. The large sophomore class did very well winning most contests though the Seniors did give them some hard competition. Still, it was all in fun. Other activities were also played such as a ball game between students and teachers, Simon Says for the J.V. football team, wheelbarrel and 3-legged races for Cross Country, not to mention the skirts presented by the classes and Drill Team. All ideas were to promote school spirit and prove it was alive and well here at Heidelberg High.

Whether one is looking for a friend, needs to study or just wants to hang around, these are all possible on the 2nd floor lobby. Groups of friends converge on to the stairs before school, between classes, or break or during lunch. About the only time there isn't someone around (or shouldn't be anyone around) is during class. The 2nd floor lobby is the scene for pep rallies during athletic seasons and each holiday a special event is held there, either selling mums, spookgrams, lolligrams, or the big day when Santa drops by and will even let you sit on his lap to get your picture taken! Dream On

Above the old bridge and amid the crackles and fizzes of vibrantly colored sparklers and snoring stars, last year's Juniors and Seniors were taken into a world of dreams come true. Using "Dream On" as their theme the Juniors were able to turn the Konigshalle into a world straight out of every one's own fantasy world. Reigning as queen and king were Debi Dassonville and Jay Doyle, while Briley Culron, Wes Loffert, Denise Scheel, and John Leighron were Senior attendants. Representing the Juniors were Susan Wharton, Bobby Nieves, Rose Ucak, and Tim Vinson. Music was provided by the band "Dream" to make the night a complete success. Breakfast was served at the NCO Club between 2:30 and 5:30, with disco music for those who were still in the mood. Couples danced until long past the sun came up and their dreams were a thing of the past.

All Juniors and Seniors were invited to "Dream On" at the Heidelberg Castle for the '79 Prom.

Off in her own dream world, Mimi Freitag enjoys a quiet moment.

A Place To Live And Grow

Patrick Henry Village, (P.H.V.) and Mark Twain Village, (M.T.V.) have not always been here for American Forces overseas. In 1945 the American housing was German hotels and private homes. M.T.V. and P.H.V. were completed in the mid-1950's, which made Heidelberg's hotels and homes German owned once again.

These American housing areas host most of the American families overseas in Heidelberg. Our home away from home, these housing areas provide a neighborhood for us as Americans in this foreign land.

"One Thinks Heidelberg By Day Is The Last Possibility Of The Beautiful"

Heidelberg has always been a special place to those who have lived and grown here

The German customs are quite unique to foreigners who have spent a short segment of their lives in this area. The architecture and medieval designs in many parts of the city continue to be wonderful relics of the past.

German society as well as the country itself has provided many interesting and enlightening experiences for those who have had a chance to live here.

 Young, Debra A. 61

We need to feel more to understand others.

We need to love more to be loved back.

We need to cry more to cleanse ourselves.

We need to laugh more
to enjoy ourselves.

We need to see more other than our own little fantasies.

We need to hear more and listen to the needs of the others.

We need to give more and take less.

We need to share more and own less.

We need to look more and realize that we are not so different from one another.

We need to create a world where everyone can peacefully live the life they choose.
